Four-hundred years have passed since the One True King disappeared.

*Before the menhirs burned out entirely, forcing people to shelter in scarce, habitable areas,
some places flourished in a moment of glory.
There were heroes. There were kings and queens.
All now faded in the memory of the living as the long-lasting autumn shifted into never-ending winter.*

*Now, snow and ice cover all. Even the wyrdness is a pale shade of itself, weaker than before, as if the cold stifled this force of pure change.
Though the Fore-dwellers failed to reconquer their land, the millennium-long story of humans on Avalon comes to a close as something interferes with the fragile balance of the island.*

Introduction

Last Knight is an additional campaign for Tainted Grail, designed to be played with a dedicated set of Characters. It takes players to the future Avalon and lets them see the final effects of their decisions from other campaigns.

The three main Tainted Grail campaigns can be played in any order, but for the best experience, we suggest players should tackle the Last Knight second, after the Fall of Avalon and before the Age of Legends campaigns.

Please keep in mind that the Last Knight and Age of Legends expansion campaigns build upon the core Tainted Grail rules and change some of them. If you have no previous experience of Tainted Grail, we recommend that you start with the core box campaign: Fall of Avalon.

Special Rules

Compared to the base game, Last Knight introduces the following new rules:

Sanctuary

There is now a fourth, additional Location Seal – SANCTUARY (1). At the Start of the Day, if your Character is in a Location with this Seal, they don't gain (or lose) – if you're using the Last Knight Challenge Mode) due to being out of range of an Active Menhir.

Please note that Sanctuary rules are slightly different in the Last Knight and Age of Legends campaigns.

Out of Range Locations

In Last Knight, you will often have no Active Menhirs anywhere on the map. There are new rules concerning Locations out of Active Menhir range:

- Locations are not discarded if there are Fore-dweller or Character models on them, or if the Locations are adjacent (including diagonally) to any Character.
- At the Start of the Day, each Character out of Active Menhir range gains 1 instead of the standard penalties outlined in the rulebook.

Exposure

Exposure represents the effects of extreme cold and harsh weather. It lowers your max.

- When you gain Exposure and you don't have an Exposure Marker, place an Exposure Marker (a red universal marker) in the topmost slot of your Health track. If you have a marker, move it one slot down. If there was a marker there, lose 1 to make space for the Exposure Marker.
- When you are told to lose Exposure, move the marker up. It can't reach 0, and you can't move it up above the topmost slot of the Health track. In these cases, the Exposure Marker doesn't move.
- You can remove the Exposure Marker only when you are told to discard it.
- When you have an Exposure Marker and Travel to a Location without the Seal, gain 1 Exposure. If you don't have an Exposure Marker, nothing happens.
- Your marker can never be in the same slot or higher than an Exposure Marker. During Rest (or when resolving any other effect that would cause you to gain), if you can't gain because of the Exposure Marker, instead: place your marker 1 slot below the Exposure marker and then lose 1 Exposure.

When you gain Exposure in this situation, you must move the Exposure Marker from slot 8 to slot 7. Because there's a marker here, you have to move the marker down to slot 6 first.

Unavoidable Damage

A new type of damage icon appears on some of the Last Knight cards: . It is just a shorter, more convenient way to represent what the core box cards referred to as “Unavoidable Damage”. The  cannot be prevented! Please note that effects that completely cancel the Attack or Response may still cancel .

Triple Attribute Keys

New, triple Attribute Keys appear on some of the Last Knight cards: . They are similar to double Keys, but connecting them requires at least 3 of a given Attribute.

Double Magic Keys

A new, double Magic Key appears on some of the Last Knight cards: . It is similar to a standard Magic Key, but connecting it requires paying 2 Magic.

Connected Bonus Keys

Some of the Last Knight cards bear this symbol: . It's similar to the connected Attribute Keys, and means the number of connected Bonus Keys of the specific type in the entire Sequence.

Please note: effects that count all connected Keys of a certain type (for example: ) also count connected triple and double Attribute Keys.

Expansion Icon

All Last Knight cards contain a special expansion icon () to make sorting them easier. The only exceptions are the Secret cards. For ease of use, Secrets from all Tainted Grail campaigns can be kept in a single deck.

New “Global” Keyword

If a Secret card has this Keyword, its rules apply to each Character.

New Traits

Last Knight introduces the following new Encounter Traits:

Counter – Every time you gain  or more when playing a single card (including all bonuses from Items and Skills), immediately resolve the Opportunity attack.

Fear – You Panic whenever you have more than 0 .

Frenzy – If you're not using any Weapon, resolve the Opportunity attack at the start of your Activation step.

Frostbite – Immediately after taking any , gain 1 Exposure.

Hunger – If you have the “Red Sign” Secret card (66), the Enemy has the Rage and Feint traits during your Character Activation step.

Multiattack – In the Enemy Attack phase, every Party member receives  and gains  from the Attack. Cards in the Sequence modify the Attack for every Party member. Items modify the Attack only for Characters who use them.

Retaliation – Add 1  to the Enemy Attack for every 2 cards in your hand.

- Mad Warrior
- Torch Bearer
- Fachan
- Hooded Crow
- Glastig
- Gigelorum
- Fuathan
- Orphaned Heart
- Ailén Trechend
- Allfather's Inquisition

Some of the above are Diplomatic Encounters. If you draw a Diplomatic Encounter with this  icon next to its name, it will act as any other Guardian if you fail or avoid it. Note that you can find Diplomatic Encounters not only in the blue Encounter deck (treat their Value as 0 for the purpose of any rules that check card's Value).

V) Add all Last Knight Secret cards to the Secret cards from the base game.

VI) Prepare a Last Knight Save Sheet.

VII) Use both additional Last Knight Help Cards from this campaign.

VIII) No changes.

IX) Use the Last Knight "Chapter 1 Setup" card and Event cards.

X) No changes.

IV) Saving the Game

All additional Tainted Grail campaigns (including Last Knight) use many components of the Tainted Grail core box and are meant to be saved in the core box.

Once you prepare this campaign, following the rules outlined above, remove any unused Fall of Avalon cards, Fall of Avalon Journal, and Fall of Avalon Character tiles from the core box and store them in the additional campaign box.

Use four core box Quick Save slots to save all Character decks, Items and Secrets for this campaign.

Store Locations and all other cards used by the campaign in the core box compartments.

Use the portable model tray found in the additional campaign box to carry all models you use in this campaign.

(Optional) Last Knight Story Mode

The default difficulty of Tainted Grail puts emphasis on survival and resource management, and the constant pressure it puts on players may be overwhelming for groups who simply want to travel and enjoy the story. If you felt too hard pressed in the Fall of Avalon campaign, the Story Mode will offer you a more laid-back experience, focused on story and exploration.

Use the basic Story Mode rules, found on page 22 of the rulebook.

Additionally, remove the plastic Health limiter piece from the game and mark  with a regular marker instead. Your  does not limit your  and you won't Panic in Combat or Diplomacy.

Please note this does not disable the Exposure rules! The red marker used for tracking  in the Story Mode may still be pushed down by the Exposure Marker.

(Optional) Last Knight Challenge Mode

In addition to using the Challenge Mode options from the rulebook, you may use any of the following:

Too human

At the Start of the Day, each Character out of Menhir range loses 1  and gains 1  instead of the standard penalties outlined in the rulebook. Characters in Locations with a Sanctuary don't lose  or gain  due to being out of range of an Active Menhir.

Permafrost

When you can't restore  during Rest (or when resolving any other effect that grants you  because of an Exposure Marker, nothing happens – you can't lose Exposure this way.

LOCATIONS

201 FROZEN DESERT

A field of white nestles under a high cliff, its top adorned with broken bridges, chains, and ropes. Everything around you is discolored, washed-out in the same way – vast snowdrifts, wisps of wyrdness creeping between them, animal tracks. The wind, blowing from the east, brings eerie melodies, stirring nostalgia and fear in your heart. A dim glow in the south reminds you of the frozen forest abundant in game.

- o Visit the cliff's icy overhang – go to Verse 4.
- o Scout the desert (pay 1  per Party member) – go to Verse 6.
- o Hunt snow foxes (only if there is no Time Token on this Location; pay 2  ) – go to Verse 1.
- o Follow the clues (requires the “Mysteries and Visions” part 2 status) – go to Verse 3.
- o Leave – Exploration ends.

Place a Time Token on this Location. Resolve the “Snow Fox” green Encounter (Difficulty 1). Exploration ends.

Snow partially covers the corpses of poor folks who tried to climb the cliff. Broken equipment has frozen to their stiff bodies.

If you don't have the “Lost Treasures” part 3 status, gain 1 non-Companion Item and the “Lost Treasures” part 3 status.

Exploration ends.

DREAM

You stand amidst a vast, white field. Snow falls, but it's black and greasy. You want to hide, but find no shelter here. Then, a skeletal hand touches your shoulder and whistles an unsettling melody. At first you feel terror, but then realize the intentions of this person are good.

NIGHTMARE

Frost bites you relentlessly while the wyrdness slowly warps your body. Wherever you go, you can't escape. What's worse, your head echoes with an ominous, maddening tune.

Each Character who has this Nightmare loses 1 .

202 PERILOUS CHASMS

A meager encampment sits at the edge of a plain broken up with broad chasms. People wearing dirty furs fill the camp, shiver in the cold and thin wyrdness. They stare from a distance, tightening their grips on the handles of their makeshift weapons. You know them – outlaws from Mangrove Huddle, exiled because of their sins. You look upon the plain's chasms. The air from underground must be warm, as the snow melted around them.

202

- o Enter the underground – go to Verse 1.
- o Visit the cluster of tents – go to Verse 4.
- o Leave this unwelcoming place – Exploration ends.

The tunnel is dark and cold. The torchlight casts unsettling shadows on the curved walls. It's hard to discern any details of your surroundings.

- o Emerge from the tunnel – Exploration ends.
- o Go deeper (requires at least 2 ) – go to Verse 7.

Everything shakes as the walls close in. You run toward the exit, hoping to escape before the walls crush you.

Each Party member gains 2  and loses 4  reduced by their . Then, Exploration ends.

You explore the grotto, finding more old blood on the floor and walls. A strange sound emanates from behind the wall – a faint gurgling, like water flowing between rocks.

Go back to Verse 7.

Smoke veils a cluster of tents. As you approach, people gather, scarves covering their faces. They keep their frostbitten hands on weapons. You've heard this is a camp of people exiled from Mangrove Huddle for their crimes.

If there is a Time Token on this Location, or if any of your Attributes are equal to 3 or more, no one dares approach you – go to Verse 5.

Otherwise, place a Time Token on this Location and resolve a blue Encounter. If you win (or you draw a “Calm Before the Storm”), go to Verse 5. Otherwise, each Party member loses all Food and Exploration ends.

Outcasts are protected from wyrdness by the aura of this strange area. But they still suffer from cold and starvation.

You may pay 1 Food to gain 2 Wealth (any number of times). Then, Exploration ends.

A massacred body lies at the center of the small grotto. You approach, peering around carefully. It looks as though a giant hand crushed this person in its deadly grasp.

If you don't have the “Dismay” part 9 status, gain 1 non-Companion Item and the “Dismay” part 9 status.

- o Scout the surroundings (requires at least 2 ) – go to Verse 3.
- o Go on – go to Verse 10.
- o Retreat from the underground – Exploration ends.

Roll a die. If the result was 1, go to Verse 2. Otherwise, read on:

You wander the branching corridors, unsure of your destination. The air grows warmer, there's more dried blood, and the stones on the ground bears signs of something heavy dragged through the tunnel.

- o Retreat – Exploration ends.
- o Go toward the heart of darkness (requires at least 3 ) – go to:

203 FORGOTTEN LOOKOUT

The entrance to the caverns is covered in slippery ice. After a few steps, the area widens into a deserted shelter – dirty rags and straw mattresses huddle against a wall covered in illegible runes. An Allmother's symbol is skillfully carved between them, just above a message renewed countless times with charcoal: “'Tis a silly place.”

If you don't have the “Hidden Caches” part 2 status, gain the “Adventurer's Kit” Item. Gain the “Hidden Caches” part 2 status and choose one:

- o Pray to Allmother – go to Verse 7.
- o Pray to Allfather – You feel his powerful presence. Go to Verse 5.
- o Leave – Exploration ends.

Go to:

In a sudden outburst of anger, you spit on the Allmother's relief, and start praying to Allfather.

If you have the “Saved by the Goddess” status, you can't remember any prayers, and you feel overwhelming drowsiness – each Party member loses 1 and Exploration ends.

Otherwise, you feel an omnipotent presence – if you don't have the “Allfather Blessing” status, each Character gains 4 Exp; then, gain this status. Exploration ends.

A scenic vista unfolds – woods, glimmering snow, and oceans at your feet. You stand at the edge of a cliff too dangerous to traverse, and you wonder where is the path that once led down toward Twisted Pathways. You turn and see a cottage perched on the cliff's edge. It appears inhabited – but who would live on this windswept rise?

- o Go into the caves – There is an entrance near the cottage. Go to Verse 1.
- o Observe the lands to the west – go to Verse 6.
- o Visit the cottage (only if you don't have the “Wilderness Encounters” part 7 status) – go to Verse 3.
- o Leave – Exploration ends.

A lonely spire rises from the bottom of the basin to the west. You can't see anything beyond – a perpetual storm rages there. An ancient forest dominates the eastern edge of the valley. Amid massive, twisted roots, you see a meadow with a ruined village and a menhir in its center.

If you're playing Fyul, have the “Fallen Wyrddhunters” part 1 status, and don't have the “Fallen Wyrddhunters” part 2 status, go to:

Otherwise, go back to the start of this Location and make another choice.

You sit before the carving and close your eyes. Praying to the old goddess always feels right, despite the hate she gets from Allfather's priests.

If you have the “Allfather's Blessing” status, your head sears with pain – each Party member gains 1 and Exploration ends.

Otherwise, the prayer soothes your nerves – each Party member loses 1 and Exploration ends.

If you are playing Chapters 1-5, go to Verse 1. Otherwise, read on:

Jagged edifices reach skyward, blocking sunlight and casting dark, cold shadows on the white-clad people wandering between them. A thick layer of ice covers everything, and some people appear completely frozen. The place unsettles you – a shiver runs down your spine, but you’re unsure if it’s the chill, these ominous people, or the strange lack of wyrdness. Is this one a sanctuary untouched by the wyrdness?

- o Approach one of the initiates (only if you don't have the Secret card 48) – go to Verse 4.
- o Visit the Cathedral (requires the Secret card 48) – go to Verse 6.
- o Retreat before they spot you – Exploration ends.

The woman tells you the cold is the only power that can fight wyrdness. The colder things are, the more resistant they are to change. Water is the best example – when warm, it flows continuously, but becomes still when frozen. Cultists here believe that if you cool the world enough, even time will stop, and humanity will finally live in a paradise.

- o Ask how to join the cult – go to Verse 7.
- o Thank her and leave – Exploration ends.

6 _____

You enter the imposing building and look upon the strange saints, their bodies emerging from altars. They don't mind the frostbite and offer you their blessing with smiles on their pale faces.

Each Party member may decide to gain 2 Exposure, 2 Magic, and 1 . Then, Exploration ends.

4 _____

You are spotted by the cultists, and one approaches you. She asks why a faithless would come here. Do you seek truth in the cold? If not, she asks you to leave, and not taint this place with your warm flesh.

If you have the “Initiation” part 5 status, go to Verse 8.

- o Listen to the “truth” – go to Verse 2.
- o Speak about the initiation (requires all Characters and four parts of the “Initiation” status) – go to Verse 5.
- o Leave – Exploration ends.

7 _____

The cultist leads you into the cathedral. High arches, clear windowpanes, straight rows of benches, and a resplendent altar of ice make you feel small and insignificant. You notice two torsos, one a man and one a woman, partially frozen to the altar. Your guide bows and tells you that these are their saints. The saints speak, moving slowly in their frigid prison:

“We see you, and we acknowledge you want to hear us. But if you wish to join us, you must prove yourself. Each of our brothers and sisters has meditated in sacred places of deepest cold. Frozen Desert. Icicle Forest. White Fog. When you finish this pilgrimage, come back to us. Then, you may ask to join us.”

Gain the “Initiation” part 1 status. Exploration ends.

New Task: Explore Frozen Desert, Icicle Forest, and White Fog and meditate there. Then, return to Frigid Cathedral to join the cult.

As those who rejected the greatest blessing, you are hated here. Angry cultists approach and force you to leave.

Resolve the “Initiate” gray Encounter (Difficulty 2). Then, Exploration ends.

DREAM & NIGHTMARE

You are chained to the curved, stone wall. You observe disgusting men, eating meat near their campfire as the cold wind and rain lashes at you.

Each Character who has this Dream or Nightmare gains 1 Exposure.

If you have the “Time” status, go to Verse 9. Otherwise, read on:

Ruins of a legendary Kamelot lie before you. Most of the castle fell into the sea along with the crumbling cliff. An enormous statue, broken in half, still guards the gaping entrance, glowing from beneath its stone hood. When you tear your eyes away from the ruins, you notice a forest of misshapen trees surrounding them – perhaps a good place to replenish your supplies.

If you're playing Chapter 6: Part 1 or Part 2, go to Verse 3.

If you're playing Chapter 8: Part 1, go to Verse 8. Otherwise, choose one:

- o Step into the courtyard – go to Verse 1.
- o Hunt in the forest (pay 1 ) – go to Verse 4.
- o Leave – Exploration ends.

The ruined courtyard is deserted, but you feel like something watches you.

If there is a Time Token on this Location, go to Verse 2. Otherwise, place a Time Token on this Location and toss a Dial:

- o Grail – go to Verse 2.
- o Skull – resolve a purple Encounter. If you win (or Enemy Run Away), go to Verse 2. Otherwise, Exploration ends.

It must have been your imagination. Dilapidated sheds stand beneath the wall, hiding unknown mysteries and dangers under their collapsing roofs. A dark hole gapes near the devastated keep – likely an entrance to cellars or maybe a dungeon. The keep itself also doesn't look welcoming.

- o Explore the sheds – go to Verse 15.
- o Descend to the cellars – go to Verse 6.
- o Enter the castle – go to Verse 13.
- o Use the tunnels under the island (only available in Chapters 10-15 and requires all Characters; pay 3  per Party member) – go to Verse 18.
- o Leave – Exploration ends.

Pale Lady leads you through the breach, and you emerge in a city surrounded by the high walls of Tuathan. Wyrdness swirls between tall buildings and gathers around a shifting statue in the central plaza. The sculpture roughly resembles a menhir, save for countless eyes forming and disappearing around its head, and a variable number of constantly growing and fading arms. Its body glimmers, changes. For the Fore-dwellers, it must be something like a Fore-dweller is to humans. Then, you notice several four-armed figures huddled around this statue. "The last city of my people," Pale Lady says with a sigh.

The Pale Lady tries to translate: “A slow, cold demise. As the wyrdness seeped out to fill the void left by the fading of the menhirs, it became too diluted to support us. Then, came the cold, stifling the pure change upon which our bodies depend. In our final struggle, we managed to make this: the un-menhir. The essence of the ever-changing life. But it was too late, most of us were gone, and no could be born anew.”

“In a final struggle, we asked someone mightier than us to rescue what was left of our race. This thing unravels the coils of wyrdness and reproduces them, in the same way our land did before humans interfered,” Pale Lady explains. “Its inner workings are much more complicated than those of our memorial shrines you humans have so callously twisted to your own ends and called ‘menhirs.’”

Go back to Verse 4.

DREAM & NIGHTMARE

You can't express the pain and sadness of lacking the vital medium that can be turned into anything. You feel like someone who lost command of their own limbs. The hard, cold reality hurts you. Simple particles of air and the foam of fine elements that create them can't maintain your manyfold existence. You can't change yourself to adapt to this frozen world, and even death, the ultimate change, is now beyond your grasp. The only thing you can do is languish in misery.

A woman, speaking in an unfamiliar accent, asks what you are doing here, and how you found this place. You tell them about your travels, avoiding the story about your four-armed ally and remodeled menhirs. People relax, and the woman explains their behavior – they suspected you might be wyrdspawn or worse, a tainted monster from the east – but these creatures can't speak as well as you. As she guides you into the village, you notice your first impression was wrong. They don't wear furs – thick hair simply covers their skin.

This underslung village was founded by refugees who previously lived north of here, where the vast chasm now lies. According to legends, the calamity was caused by the forgotten Cuanacht's heroes – they were supposed to save their farmhold, but instead they brought doom upon it.

There are several engineers whose only job is to maintain the village's construction and to teach this craft to the new generation. They hesitate to tell you anything, but eventually you manage to coax some information out of them. The village is safe thanks to lighter ropes made of hair that hold the buildings together, while sparser steel ropes bear the brunt of the weight. The art of making these peculiar steel cables is the greatest secret of Cuanacht, one that requires many years of difficult and skilled work.

Go back to Verse 4.

The healer sits you down in a chair and asks you to press your head against a wooden backrest. A low buzz fills your head, calming you. After a time that certainly feels too short, the healer helps you stand and bids you farewell. You feel much better, though you don't know why.

Each Party member loses 2 . Go back to Verse 6.

It's strange, but almost no one knows how exactly the village is heated – they just point toward the metal ropes and tell you they emit heat, and that you can't touch them or you'll die. One woman says you could poke a rope, but only with a wooden stick. Otherwise, the heat will enter your body and kill you. Maybe the local master engineer would know more, but he only speaks to enlightened people.

If you have 3 or more , go to Verse 16. Otherwise, go back to Verse 4.

The people are busy with a funeral, and no one has time to talk with you any longer. Two men close shut a tight, wooden coffin – you glance at the interior and see a woman with a slit throat. Men wearing heavy leather clothes climb the ropes leading toward the giant sword, hauling the coffin to the weapon's edge. Soon, the coffin hangs from the blade, along with countless others.

You ask how the woman died – it appears some beast climbed up to the village, killed the smith, and stole her tools, including a hammer used by her to shape metal shards from the swords. The murderer must have escaped east – the blood trail leads there, toward the tainted necropolis.

Gain the "Clues" part 7 status. Go back to Verse 6.

Hint: You should go east to find the missing tools.

They don't answer and instead inspect you carefully. Then, they ask you why you have so little hair. They are suspicious and accuse you of being a wyrdspawn.

Resolve the "False Accusation" Blue Encounter (Difficulty 3). Then, Exploration ends.

A young woman decides to speak with you after hearing your questions. You walk into her workshop and see slivers of strange metal on her table between bowls of water, soil, and vegetables. She tells you that the heat appears in the steel ropes when they connect the two swords, but not when they are attached to the same one. It must be some strange property of the wyrdsteel, an invisible current that flows between the two giant blades. To discover its nature, she tests splinters from both swords – so far, she knows they transfer no heat between them, unless stuck in some specific materials.

If you have the “Time” status, go to Verse 13. Otherwise, read on:

A small settlement huddles between the roots of a giant, nameless tree – one of the few havens left on this island. Wyrdness avoids this region – they say because of legendary Merlin’s blessing. Shining runes on black bark also repel the cold. Still, you’re not sure if the town can prevail – its people peer with hunger in their eyes. The wyrdness thickened recently, preventing hunters from making longer excursions and destroying the crops. Some whisper the runes dim, but such rumors are suppressed by the vigilant Allfather’s priests and caretakers who tend the tree.

MENHIR MEADOW

If you don't have the “Dismay” part 8 and have the “Clues” part 8 status, go to Verse 3. Otherwise, read on:

*The first thing that catches your attention is a circle of statues carved in ice, surrounding a menhir in the middle of a ruined settlement. People say that menhirs once protected the island from wyrdness, but even so, they don't work now. You notice a gaping hole, tall as an upright human, in the building's wall, framed with tiny blue crystals. Nothing lies beyond except pitch-black void. ## 224 ICICLE FOREST

The wind, originating in chasms to the west and south, rages between gnarled branches, heavy from ice and snow. Its gusts chill you to the bone. In the middle of the forest, a mound stands in the shape of an animal skull with horns made of icicles. You get the feeling you've seen it before.

- o Meditate (requires the “Initiation” part 1 status) – go to Verse 9.

As you enter the forest, you spot an old trail of blood leading into the woods. You proceed cautiously, until you find a place where a battle took place. Tracks of several people mingle with the ones of a medium-sized wyrm, all splattered in blood. There are no corpses, only shattered fragments of hunting equipment and clothes. You don't think that there are any bodies left.

Gain the “Missions” part 1 status. Go back to Verse 4.

The entrance to the barrow is open and dark. You place your torch in a sconce and enter the stone skull. There is almost nothing inside – only a thin layer of ice on the ground and an abandoned altar topped with cracked human and animal skulls. It seems a good place to rest, sheltered from the freezing wind.

If you have the “Legacy” part 15 status, go to Verse 6. Otherwise, read on:

- o Rest (this will end your day) – each Party member Passes and loses 2 Exposure. Exploration ends.
- o Exit – go back to the start of this Location and make another choice.

You grow tired of the walking, and when you stop to catch your breath, you notice many animal tracks in the snow. Most of them look normal. Not like the ones reshaped by the wyrdness. It's probably an excellent place to gather provisions for Mangrove Huddle. If only it wasn't so hard to get here through the wyrdness...

Dagan gains 1 Exp. Gain the “Needed Supplies” part 1 status. Go to Verse 8.

If you're playing Chapters 2-3 and don't have the “Missions” part 1 status, go to Verse 7.

If you're playing Chapters 4-15 and don't have the “Missions” part 1 status, go to Verse 1.

Everything in the forest is encased in a thin layer of ice. It's beautiful, but you see it causes the plants to suffer – a tremendous burden bends them to the ground. You're also suffering, but from a bitter cold.

Each Party member gains 1 Exposure, unless this Party member has an “Adventurer's Kit” Item.

- o Admire nature – go to Verse 8.
- o Locate the nest (requires Fyul and the “Fallen Wyrdhunters” part 2 status) – go to Verse 5.
- o Emerge from the forest – Exploration ends.

You march toward the hill you saw from the cliff. The forest grows denser as you progress, as if the trees stand in your way. Finally, you hack your way through and emerge in a small glade. Something resembling a nest lies before you – branches, twigs, frozen animal and human corpses all woven together. It looks abandoned, as if Black Drifter moved somewhere else. You don't mind the sight, but you are terrified of the raw menhir magic this nest radiates. The aura of this place twists your insides painfully.

- o Leave the forest – Exploration ends.
- o Go claim your revenge (only if you don't have the “Fallen Wyrdhunters” part 3 status) – go to:

You feel a presence behind your back. You quickly turn around and see an eerie creature – a deer skull with broad antlers, cold, dead lanterns in both hands, dark veins pulsating slowly under the bare skin. Cold mist surrounds the figure, turning into rime on its antlers and the mound walls.

You feel the creature's hatred and helplessness – as it would like to tear you to shreds for your sins, but it can't because it lost all of its power. “Leave.” Strange words reverberate in your mind. “You've destroyed so much already. Don't taint this sacred place, this last memorial of our father anymore.”

You don't know what this monster wants, but there's clearly nothing here for you. You leave, with questions floating around in your heads.

Go back to the start of this Location and make another choice.

7

You see a wyrm slowly devouring a human body – more corpses lie scattered around. The beast spits out its meal when it spots you and moves to attack. In its beady eyes, you’re only another snack.

Gain the “Missions” part 1 status.

Resolve the “Ice Wym” green Encounter (Difficulty 2). If you win (or the Enemy Runs Away), you recover the bodies – gain Secret card 2 and go back to Verse 4.

New Task: If you reclaimed the hunters’ bodies, take them to their families in Mangrove Huddle.

8

You know how cruel this frost is, but you can’t stop thinking how fascinating it looks. You can see red fruits, lush-green leaves, and even small insects encased under the ice. As if they were frozen in time, not in the water.

If you’re playing Dagan and you don’t have the “Needed Supplies” part 1 status, go to Verse 3.

Each Party member loses 1 . Exploration ends.

You sit under a tree and press your back to the cold bark. Your body shudders immediately, but you close eyes and try to meditate. You feel life under the ice, hidden deep inside the tree. A life that will last forever.

Each Party member gains 1 Exposure. Gain the “Initiation” part 2 status. Exploration ends.

DREAM

You feel a pleasant chill as you fly between branches in search of prey. You love the moment when your claws sink into a fox’s neck.

Each Character who has this Dream gains 1  and 1 Exposure.

NIGHTMARE

You can’t stand it anymore. Your fallen body was always tainted by humans, but what happened now in your grove... It’s too much! With the last of your power, you send torrential rains down on this place, then freeze it with the chill wind to purge from it all the filth!

Each Character who has this Nightmare gains 1  and 1 Exposure

225 TWISTED PATHWAYS

If you have the “Time” status and the “Decision” part 1 or 5 status, go to Verse 14. Otherwise, read on:

Freezing wind flows from the north, winding its way through the labyrinth of tangled roots, fallen trees, and snowdrifts. Remains of rope bridges and lanterns dangle from the trunks, and ancient marks cut into their bark point toward places lost to time. This maze-forest is the only known way to the north – but during the last few months, as the wyrdness grew thicker, the paths have changed. Entering without a guide might be your doom.

To the west, you see a more tranquil place – a basin with a lone tower in the center. Maybe you should go there instead?

If you are playing Chapter 2 and have the “Missions” part 2 status, you may go to Verse 10 (this will end your Chapter).

If you’re playing Chapter 5, go to Verse 11.

If Location 235 (or 275) is attached to this card, you may pay 1  per Party member to move all Party members to Location 235 (or 275). Then, Exploration ends.

Crossing the bridge takes some time – you must avoid cracked and unstable areas. But you make it to the other side unharmed. You enter a dense grove and find a majestic, tall tree growing in a small clearing. A grave rests at its feet, a spear made of strange, opalizing metal impaled into it – you try to move the weapon, but it doesn't budge. Plenty of white and purple flowers grow around the grave, ignoring ice and snow. You shift your focus to the tree and see that it has leaves despite the cold, and something golden glimmers inside its crown.

- o Rest by the grave – go to Verse 13.
- o Climb the tree (pay 1  per Party member) – go to:

You follow the cries and find a weeping knight kneeling on the icebound ground. Thick roots have him by his armor. He raises his head – behind the visor a pair of red eyes look at you with pure hate. The knight rises and rushes at you. These things you took for roots are growing out of the knight's body!

Gain the “Wilderness Encounters” part 3 status. Resolve the “Lost Knight” gray Encounter (Difficulty 2).

Then, Exploration ends.

6

You're no longer sure where you are. The trail branched off so many times, and the roots above cover the sun, making it impossible to find your direction.

226 LONELY SPIRE

You were expecting something spectacular, but the sight from the spire's top is rather dull. The platform is at the same level as the forests surrounding the basin, so you can't see much farther. What's more, the top of the spire is uneven and slippery. You must take care not to fall.

If you don't have the "Mysteries and Visions" part 5 status, go to:

Otherwise, Exploration ends.

The way up the slope is horrible – full of unstable rocks and frozen mud that crumbles under your feet. When you finally reach the top, you're drenched in sweat. Gasping for air, you notice an ethereal creature in the shape of a pig. It immediately vanishes into thin air, leaving you dumbfounded. As you look for the creature, you realize you are in the middle of berry shrubs full of small, edible fruit.

Each Party member gains 1 Food and loses 2 HP. Gain the "Wilderness Encounters" part 2 status.

Exploration ends.

If you're playing Chapter 13: Part 6, go to Verse 5. Otherwise, read on:

A lone tower, its walls marked with soot, rises from the bottom of a basin, surrounded by frozen mud and adorned with fish skeletons. The remains of an encampment lie scattered around the base of the tower: traces of campfires, decayed ropes, tent pegs. You wonder who dwelled here, as the area is frigid, and the wyrdness seems to somehow stick to the tower.

- o Check the spire's outskirts – go to Verse 7.

You climb the stairs, or at least you think these are the stairs. The freezing wind howls as it squeezes through many openings in the walls. It's hard to understand why anyone would raise such a hole-ridden structure. You shiver with cold, but your mind is still – the atmosphere of this place is peaceful and mysterious. Unfortunately, all the rooms were already ransacked, and there is nothing here.

Each Party member gains 1 Magic.

- o Go farther up (pay 1  per Party member) – go to Verse 1.
- o Leave – Exploration ends.

Snow mixed with mud surrounds the tower, making it difficult to move on. You feel how it saps your heat, leaving you shivering. You also notice something intriguing – wyrdness sticks to the spire's walls, leaving a small area outside almost free of its influence. As you ponder this, you catch a glimpse of something bright running up to slope of the basin.

- o Follow the light, leaving the tower behind (only if you don't have the “Wilderness Encounters” part 2 status; pay 1  per Party member) – go to Verse 2.
- o Forget it – go to the start of this Location and make another choice.

You swim with schools of colorful fish. Vast corridors glimmer with jewels, and curious artifacts lie in rows on sturdy shelves. You feel almost at home, but instead of wyrdness, you are surrounded by delightful water. When you're here, you almost forget about your worries.

Each Character who has this Dream gains 1 Magic.

The tower is abandoned again, but not for long.

Each Character who has this Nightmare loses 1 .

227 HAUNTED TOWN

Gathering resources and loose parts from the district by the cliff takes some time, but it is the actual repair work that consumes half your day. Recreating the cranes, rebuilding the intricate systems of cogs and crafting secure platforms is a daunting task. But, in the end, you make something that allows you to go up and down the southern cliff at will, opening a new path to the Frozen Desert.

Gain the “Means of Survival” part 4 status. Exploration ends.

Most buildings have at least two floors, and many stand taller. You’ve never seen anything like that! Almost all are made of stone, often carved in beautiful floral patterns.

- o Wander between the buildings – go to Verse 8
- o Visit a deserted mansion – go to Verse 9.
- o Leave – Exploration ends.

The battered door yields under your touch, letting you onto a creaking floor. Gilded stairs used to go up to the next floor, but now they lie on the side, folded in half by wyrdness. You feel uneasy in this dark, cramped space.

- o Search the mansion (only if you don’t have the “Hidden Caches” part 1 status) – go to:

- o Escape from the residence – Exploration ends.

This was once a great town – you imagine towers rising up, the uplifting presence of Camelot on the eastern horizon, narrow streets filled with bargaining people, and the splendor of plentiful mansions. But now, wyrdness creeps the alleys, the spires crumbled years ago, dilapidated buildings appear empty and soulless, and the castle on the horizon lies in ruins. The southern part of this borough, built on planks and bridges hanging over the cliff, offers impressive views of the Black Sands and the Glimmering Forest.

- o Go into the town – go to Verse 5.
- o Inspect the machinery hanging from the cliff (only if you don’t have the “Means of Survival” part 4 status) – go to Verse 4.

- o Leave – Exploration ends.

You approach the ancient machinery at the edge of the cliff. You’re sure that it was used to rappel up goods and maybe even livestock or people. You think you can make it work again, but it will require some effort.

Otherwise, you can't find anything worth mention. Go back to Verse 5.

You enter once-magnificent residence – the tapestries are moth-eaten, and the paintings have faded, but they were undoubtedly splendid in their good days. One of the paintings depicts a monumental castle standing watch above a city of many ports and countless gardened villas. It takes you a moment to understand it's not Avalon. This is the first depiction of the Homelands you have seen in your entire life, and it is magnificent.

- o Search this place (only if you don't have the “Hidden Caches” part 1 status) – go to:

DREAM & NIGHTMARE

If you don't have the “Mysteries and Visions” part 6 status, each Party member gains 1 Exp; gain the “Mysteries and Visions” part 6 status.

Each Party member gains 1 Magic and 1 . Exploration ends.

The scratches are about four inches deep. Many of them look fresh, but some are packed with old snow. Something massive must visit this place regularly. As you inspect the damage, you notice a vague silhouette of a menhir under the ice. You wonder how did the statue end up at the bottom of a river...

If you're playing Fyul and you don't have the “Fallen Wyrddhunters” part 1 status, go to Verse 13.

Otherwise, choose one:

- o Absorb the menhir's magic (requires the “Leaking Magic” Secret card (24)) – go to Verse 12.
- o Leave – Exploration ends.

If you have the “Time” status, go to Verse 17. Otherwise, read on:

Fat white maggots crawl on the edges of this icebound river, leaving slimy trails behind them – what keeps them from freezing to the surface? The ice shows deep scratches, as if a great bird landed here many times, perhaps hitting the dilapidated cottage sitting half-collapsed on the riverbank. You feel trapped, surrounded by Twisted Pathways, the veil of wyrdness to the west, mists to the east, and a shattered land to the north.

If there is a Fore-dweller model or Time Token in this Location, go to Verse 1.

Otherwise, go to Verse 5.

Exploration ends.

13

On the bodies of your companions you saw markings similar to these scratches. The monster that killed them must have been the same beast that visits this river. New memories emerge from the oblivion of your mind – the last time you saw the woman was near the Stone of Memories, northwest of here. Niamh gains 1 Exp. Gain the "Past" part 1 status. Go back to Verse 8.

237 PIT OF THE DEAD

A dense fog, creeping from hot springs full of chattering people, gathers over a vast hole in the ground. This pit was once a resting place for the legendary knights of the Round Table. "Are you here to study the life and deeds of great Arthur too?" the man asks when you approach.

If you have the "Legacy" part 16 status, go to Verse 23. Otherwise, read on:

"I'm trying to figure out why there are so many contradictions to his story. He is the One and True King who ruled for centuries. He led our people to Avalon, and since then, rose from his slumber in times of need to protect humanity. There were always many witnesses to his deeds. But why hasn't he appeared even once in the last four-hundred years?" The man sighs and continues, "Don't mind me. I'm curious and old, so I can waste my time on futile studies. Don't waste yours – move on."

"I'm trying to figure out why there are so many contradictions to his story. Today, those who still remember Arthur believe him to be the greatest ruler ever. His monuments scattered throughout Avalon only reinforce this notion. But I found a chronicle written a decade after the conquest that indicates Arthur wasn't even the ruler back then. Apparently, there was a rebellion, and after his disastrous foray into Tuathan, the king was stripped of all powers and exiled, while a council of noble families ruled in his stead from a place called 'Tintagel'."

"Can you believe it? Mighty Arthur died in exile and disrepute, and only decades after his death, folk tales, legends, and dissident historians began to elevate him as a central figure of the golden age of Avalon."

You want to interrupt the man, but he doesn't give you a chance, consumed with his speculations.

"And here's where the thing gets really interesting. In the centuries to follow, the Round Table found a way to raise the king from the dead, whenever the land was in peril. Did they know they we're going to great lengths to bring back a ruler who never accomplished any of the grand things that were attributed to him?"

The man sighs and continues, "Oh, I'm boring you to death. Don't mind me. I'm curious and old, so I can waste my time on futile studies. Don't waste yours – move on."

You nod your head and leave, but the words of the scholar stick with you. Could it be that many mighty heroes of the past were in reality just as fallible as you? Perhaps what you did so far will only grow in future retellings, placing you among great champions of this land?

It is a strange, but reassuring thought.

She always yearned for stories from the past, and the Stone of Memories provides more than you ever could.

After a long while, the time comes to part ways. The girl looks at your horn and notices it's badly worn. She offers you hers, as she doesn't need it anymore. It is a splendid instrument you found for her a long, long time ago. You accept it with gratitude, hoping it will remind you of her wherever the path might take you.

As you prepare to depart, the girl smiles and says:

“Teacher, one last thing before you leave. There is an inscription I came upon here, from twenty years ago. A tale of a brave storyteller who travelled with her amber-eyed infant daughter.”

She leaves the question unasked, and you're grateful for this. Trying hard to stop the tears, you answer:

“You should know it's impossible. The wyrd-covered trails are no good for a child, and the tradition forbids it. Only orphans may become storytellers.”

The tower's interior is difficult to navigate, but there is nothing to find here anyway. Detailed wall paintings are the only things left intact, depicting brave knights fighting Fore-dwellers and duelling on the fighting grounds. Their scenes of past glory at least raise your spirits.

The view from the hill is beautiful, with the high wall of Tuthan to the west and a giant stone head to the south. Northeast from here, a single island stands against the waves, a ruined city atop it. But the area near the tower is stripped of anything useful.

Go back to Verse 2.

244 HOWLING NEST

Stone and iron pegs anchor shaky rope bridges connecting the cliff to the ruin-covered island. It looks like a stone nest sitting atop an inaccessible rock, surrounded by raging waters. You're not sure how you still live, but you must avoid the ice floes and somehow get back to the mainland.

Each Party member loses 4 , gains 4  and gains 4 Exposure. Then, Exploration ends.

245 SKY PILLARS

A storm rages above, resounding with thunder and illuminated by lightning. It's the most powerful storm you've ever seen, but no raindrops or snowflakes reach the ground – five dark obelisks hold the dome of the tempest above them like pillars, not allowing it descend below a certain point. A funeral procession approaches a grave with a black tombstone. Your small, four-armed masters wait for you, preparing a rite to send your sister's soul into the sky. Each Character who has this Dream gains 1 Magic.

246 WEeping WATCHER

You approach a monumental stone head, its cheeks, eyes, and mouth marked with ice. Many pale-skinned people bustle around the head, tending small gardens and animal pens full of fat foxes, domesticated boars, and puffins with clipped wings. The entrance is colorfully decorated, and inside you find a silent settlement full of calm people – most have their eyes closed, pursed lips, and small, almost non-visible noses. The place is cozy, if unnerving.

251 GRUESOME DISPLAY

You enter a Fore-dweller city and immediately want to turn back – symmetrical buildings with glass walls brim with motionless people, animals, and even Fore-dwellers. Most look normal, while others don't have skin or even flesh – you see their insides as clearly as the fear in their lidless eyes. As you delve deeper, some of this sick exhibition moves to the outside, forcing you to walk between corpses embalmed in different poses.

If you have Secret card 97 and don't have the “Keeper” part 1 status, go to Verse 1.

If you don't have the “Tuathan” status, go to Verse 3.

Gain the “Keeper” part 1 status. Then, go back to the start of this Location and make another choice.

If you have the “Legacy” part 6 status, go to Verse 8. Otherwise, Exploration ends.

Suddenly, you realize you're inside Tuathan, the infamous Fore-dweller city where monsters dwell, with wyrdness so thick and deadly it kills in a heartbeat. But what you see around you is nothing like the stories. The sights are alien and strange, but not horrific. The wyrdness doesn't seem so threatening – there's barely more of it than around your hometown. Were the legends wrong? Is even the wyrdness fading from Avalon? Or maybe, after centuries, the island has reached some new equilibrium?

You imagine that, as wyrdness flowed out of Tuathan to fill holes torn by humans and their menhirs, eventually everything balanced out, like water in two connected vessels. The island became weirder while Tuathan normalized.

You almost feel disappointed you can't witness Tuathan in its full, warped glory.

Gain the “Tuathan” status. Then, go back to the start of this Location and make another choice.

You find human skeletons in shining armor atop horses of bleached bone. You recognize symbols on the riders' shields as crests of the Knights of the Round Table. So, this is where the Order disappeared. Were they trying to stop the Fore-dwellers? Were they looking for something? You would have to turn back time to learn...

Each Party member gains 1 .

Exploration ends.

252 SWORD PLAIN

Buildings part, and a large, empty field of grass unravels before you. As you approach, you notice it isn't grass, but steel blades protruding from the ground. It would be difficult to move through this thicket of sharp weapons without drawing blood.

Exploration ends.

Each Party member loses 1 . Gain Secret card 3 and the “Dismay” part 2 status. Exploration ends.

A vast wasteland with one discernable landmark – a high, tilted hill, resting on human-made walls which sink into the ground. Tendrils of wyrdness lazily float above the snow, melting it in their paths, dispersing as they touch snowdrifts. Is this place truly the heart of the ancient city of the Fore-dwellers?

If you have the Secret card 97 and don't have the "Keeper" part 2 status, go to Verse 2.

Otherwise, choose one:

There is a small crevice at the hill's feet. From there, branching corridors (like those deep beneath Camelot) lead into the bowels of Avalon.

Go to:

You find you can weave and manipulate wyrdness with ease. If you use the right catalysts, you can change everything, including your own past experiences!

Each Party member gains 1 . Each Party member may pay 2 Exp and then pay 3 Food or 3 Wealth or 3 Magic to discard one of their Skill cards and choose a new Skill card with the same Attribute.

Exploration ends.

What looks like a wall of natural stone, after closer inspection, turns out to be a single block of wyrdstone. Up high, where the wall touches the hilltop, you see an upside-down gate. It looks like a part of a fortress turned on its top and submerged in the ground.

Go back to the start of this Location and make another choice.

Townhouses lie on their sides, doors opening to the sky. Edible plants grow between their walls, sheltering wild animals beneath lush leaves. - o Explore the laying buildings – go to Verse 1.
- o Study spirals on the soles (pay 1  per Party member) – go to Verse 4.
- o Leave – Exploration ends.

Otherwise, each Party member gains 1 Magic and 1 . Exploration ends.

This last stand of humanity was created by Arthur to protect his people should all else fail. To you, it looks anything but safe. Darkness seems to push against the torchlight, as if it wants to devour and imprison you. Finally, you approach a well-crafted portal with an inscription: “Archives.” The area appears brighter. ### DREAM & NIGHTMARE

You dream of foreign lands full of green plants, illuminated with hot and intense sunlight. The sights are strange, but also pleasant.

Each Character who has this Dream or Nightmare discards the Exposure Marker and loses 1 .

The first thing that draws your attention is a high wave blocking the way to the west – at least thirty feet tall, perpetually crumbling though it’s frozen forever. When you manage to avert your eyes from this wonder, you examine your surroundings – you stand on a narrow strip of land between the walls of Tuathan and a cliff leading to the sea. A faint sound seems to come from beyond the cliff’s edge.

- o Lean out to see the cliff face – go to Verse 5.
- o Delve into the crevices of the Tuathan wall (pay 1 per Party member) – go to Verse 4.

If you have 1 or less , you brush against the substance and it burns your skin – each Party member loses 1 . Read on:

Crystals repel slimy veins – the niche is free of them. Inside, you find tiny mirrors and rusted elements of fragile machinery that crumble under the slightest touch. Torchlight reflects in the mirrors and focuses in many points in the cave. The yellow slime quickly moves away from these points.

If you don't have the “Riches of the Past” part 6 status, each Party member gains 1 Exp; gain the “Riches of the Past” part 6 status. Exploration ends.

- o Check the immediate surrounding of the entrance – go to Verse 7.
- o Go deeper (requires at least 2 ) – go to Verse 2.
- o Leave – Exploration ends.

You lean over the cliff and see three faces carved in the stone, their eyes the size of a standing human. They stare piercingly back at you. “It’s not comfortable to talk like that,” the cliff rumbles. “There is a path leading down. Come closer, human.”

- o Draw back and leave – go back to the start of this Location and make another choice.
- o Go down (requires all Characters, pay 1 per Party member) – go to Verse 11.

- o Go deeper into the wall (requires at least 2 ) – go to Verse 2.
- o Leave – Exploration ends.

The cave is empty, excluding one empty niche surrounded by white-pink crystals.

- o Leave this place – Exploration ends.
- o Try to reach the niche – go to Verse 3.

The wounds are full of frozen, white maggots. Dried blood covers every surface. Despite the cold, the corpse reeks of decay. It once belonged to a traveler – rusted kettles and climbing equipment are among his ruined belongings.

Each Party member gains 1 .

If you don't have the “Riches of the Past” part 5 status, you find golden trinkets in good condition – gain the “Petty Trinkets” Item (or 1 Wealth if it’s not available) and the “Riches of the Past” part 5 status.

Then, go back to Verse 7.

11

You descend slippery steps carved into the cliffside and emerge onto the frozen sea. Stone sages look down on you from above. "Knowledge comes at a price, but today the order will be reversed," they say. Then, you hear faint rumbling – could it be... laughter?

263 DEVASTATION

The ground is rippled, and trees grow upside down, their roots burst open by frozen sap. An ice river meanders between unnatural hills and ends in a tiny hot spring, producing thick fog that mingles with wyrdness. The wyrdness is thick here, as if something pushes it from the south.

- o Explore the area – go to Verse 3.
- o Rest by the hot spring (pay 1  per Party member) – go to Verse 4.
- o Descend into the tunnels beneath the island (requires all Characters; pay 3  per Party member) – go to Verse 1.

Each Party member loses 2 Exposure. Exploration ends.

You notice patterns in the area – trees grow in similarly shaped groves on similarly shaped hills, and even fissures form repetitive shapes. As you inspect the surroundings, it becomes obvious this landscape was crafted with some purpose in mind.

If you have 4 or more , go to Verse 11.

Otherwise, Exploration ends.

11

You devote time to studying the regularities. Together they form a larger picture in the shape of each of each smaller element, with minor differences. You have the notion these might be Fore-dweller runes, or some other esoteric way of recording information.

If there is a Fore-dweller model on this Location, go to:

Otherwise, Exploration ends.

A single hill rises from otherwise flat terrain, standing proudly between deep chasms and the high walls of Tuathan. Its slopes are free of wyrdness, which slides off them like snow, making this place a windy but safe spot to rest. You also notice a few tunnel entrances at the foot of the hill.

- o Spend the entire day exploring the tunnels (pay 4  per Party member) – go to Verse 1.

Climbing the hill isn't a challenge – it's not that steep, and there are many footholds. Soon, you stand atop it and look around. To the north, you see Tuathan's wall of bone-like stone – you still remember the strangeness you've encountered on the other side of it. To the south lie snowy plains marked with black symbols from which plumes of steam rise. A clear lake shimmers in the south-west, a strange wooden structure floating in its center.

Exploration ends.

You notice evidence of scavengers and signs of mining activity all around – broken containers and tools, burnt torches, and frozen food. On your way out, you come upon a half-buried entrance to a strange cave – rectangular, almost like the interior of a house. It seems it was spared scavengers, and valuables might remain.

If you don't have the “Hidden Caches” part 9 status, gain 3 Wealth and 1 non-Companion Item; gain the “Hidden Caches” part 9 status. Exploration ends.

The deeper you delve, the more these tunnels resemble the ruins of a city, buried beneath the hill. Someone made a mine of this mound, given that everything is picked clean with such diligence. Fortunately, the underground is so vast that there are still some valuables to be found.

Each Party member gains 2 Wealth. Exploration ends.

DREAM

You dream of bright sun and lush green grassland. A group places a boulder in the ground alongside others and goes to fetch another rock. Then, it strikes you – the people stand as tall as the trees of the nearby forest.

Each Character who has this Dream gains 1 .

NIGHTMARE

You sit at the table with your family, enjoying mead and flat-bread. The warmth of the fireplace is made even more pleasant by the raging storm outside. Then, you hear a thunderous noise, as if the whole island has broken in half. Your children look to you with terror in their eyes, and you nod, overflowing with sadness. Then, the world collapses, burying you.

Each Character who has this Nightmare loses 1 .

265 TRANQUIL LAKE

As you move forward, it grows warmer and warmer. First, the wet snow sticks to your boots, then white and violet flowers appear. Finally, at the edge of a lake, you spot green grass. The lake isn't frozen! It looks like an enormous bucket of melted snow or a tiny sea without the ice floats. Dilapidated huts stand by the shore – something clearly destroyed the settlement. A giant construction made of wood and stone floats in the center of the lake.

- o Fish the lake (pay 1 ) – go to Verse 3.
- o Swim toward the structure (pay 1  per Party member) – There's a boat on the shore, but it doesn't look seaworthy. Go to Verse 4.

- o Leave for now – go back to the start of this Location and make another choice.

As you approach the structure, your insides twist with pain, and something in your head screams with fear. The sunlight blinds you, the wind roars in your ears. You must go back!

266 CAUSTIC MEADOW

Trenches brimming with black sludge taint the meadow's purity. Snow melts with a loud hiss as it touches the liquid – you shudder each time you hear it. A lone, worn menhir stands between the ditches, bearing marks of frequent Black Drifter visits. The creature must nest nearby, most likely to the west, where you saw its shadow recently.

The figure, a man, stands much taller than you thought – when you approach, it appears you barely reach the height of his arm. He boasts a long beard the same color as the ram fur he wears. Despite his impressive stature, he seems confused and lost. He inquires where all the people are. He says he came here, as he was asked, but he seems to be a little late. He's found no one, only several pathetic villages.

Gain the "Friends" part 5 status.

Place a Time Token on this Location. Go back to Verse 6 and make another choice.

10 _____

"You have a patron, I see. I don't know him, but I won't interfere with him. Be safe on your path," says the man. He leaves as if he has forgotten about you already.

267 HORN OF SOUTH

Churning waves crash against the cliff, breaking the ice crust lining the shore. Two rocks protrude from this frigid hell – a single tower stands guard atop one of them, while ruins adorn the other. Anyone wishing to visit any of these rocks must cross the sea, using a single rope swinging several feet above the waters.

- o Cross the water using the rope – It doesn't look safe. Go to Verse 5.

Each Party member loses 1  and gains 4  and 4 Exposure. Exploration ends.

The floor crunches unpleasantly under your feet – it's covered in frozen mud and fishbones. The tower is empty, save for a strange chair resembling a throne of some ominous ocean god – a corpse sits upon it, covered in seaweed, shells, and starfish.

If you don't have the “Riches of the Past” part 2 status, go to Verse 9.

Otherwise, there isn't anything of use. Go back to Verse 7.

You stand at the feet of a tower reeking of decaying kelp, fish, and musty water. Where once stood a gate, now only a gaping hole and rusted hinges remain. The interior is dark and quiet, its silence disturbed only by the wind whistling between loose stones.

- o Leave – go to Verse 1.

You pass the castle gates under the piercing gaze of two wardens. Their primitive leather armor and simple spears don't match the grandeur of this fortress. The next sight is also unusual – instead of noble people, knights, or servants, you see an unorganized camp of smallfolk. According to him, before Morgaine's manipulations, the prime deity was always the Allfather. The man and his comrades found tomes describing this true religion that date back to the Homelands. Then he departs, explaining that he must go to the archive.

It radiates with glory so imposing you don't know if you should cry or kneel. The priests kindly pretend they haven't noticed your reaction – they take the cup. They place it in your hands, warm and glowing.

“Do not be afraid to hold it. You are unable to taint it, and it will find its way back home, once it's no longer needed,” the priestess says, and they both bid you farewell.

Exploration ends.

The king goes silent for a while, and then continues:

“I decided to move the cup from the castle, for – despite all its beauty – its sight pained me greatly,” the king says. “Go to the temple and take it. Dried blood blemishes the menhir standing in the circle of ice claws, which rise like a maw about to clamp shut. Runes etch the surface of these claws, all bloodied. The portal to the nothingness is larger than before – it swallowed the building, and is starting to devour the next one. But it flickers, as if it might disappear at any moment. For now, this is not a safe place.

- o Leave – go back to Verse 1.

Each Party member gains 1 Magic and 1 . Exploration ends.

You carefully step onto the ice, avoiding the largest fractures, and move toward the place where the menhir was submerged. The closer you are, the more destruction you see – it looks like the menhir was the epicenter of this incident. The ice lost its transparency, but as you look through it, you can discern the menhir's outline – it stands cracked and broken. You don't feel even the slightest trace of its magic.

The enormous swords dwarf even the mountains – one lies on its side, concealing a ruined building beneath its blade; the second lies broken in half; the third reaches to the sky, its pommel obscured by clouds. For a moment, you think these must be the swords of giants who yielded to Arthur, but they are simply too large. They also couldn't be made by humans. Is it a work of wyrdness?

- o Investigate the old ruin – go to Verse 1.

- o Go on a hunt (pay 1  per Party member) – go to Verse 3.

She tells you the short and dull story of her life – she was raised and trained as an heir to the previous Morgaine. She assumed power of Kamelot, diminished as it is, and has had little to do since. She tried to pay wandering storytellers to come here more often, when they were still traversing the wyrdness-covered lands, but they didn't want to waste their time here. And yes – despite the legends, "Morgaine" is just a title, and not the name of an immortal, omnipotent witch.

You cross the breach and emerge in a city surrounded by the high walls of Tuathan. Wyrdrness swirls between tall buildings and gathers around a shifting statue in the central plaza. The sculpture roughly resembles a menhir, save for countless eyes forming and disappearing around its head, and a variable number of constantly growing and fading arms. Its body glimmers, changes. In your dream, you huddle next to the flickering statue, trying to warm your four hands in the comforting cloud surrounding it. All around you, the cold creeps in. Throughout Avalon, your familiar world yielded before another, alien one. A dreary, deterministic reality, where one flap of butterfly wings today always brings the same results one hundred years later. A hell, devoid of the tantalizing potential for change and greatness.

The cold is now so close it touches your body. You shrivel, instinctively covering yourself with this carapace intended to keep your precious energy inside. But it won't be enough. It can only sustain you for so long.

BOOK OF SECRETS

The sharp cries of seagulls drift from above – unlikely music for such a momentous occasion. Regardless, they fill the people crammed tight on the deck of the Prydwen with hope. The birds are reminiscent of those plentiful in the Homelands. If these birds can thrive here, among these strange and colorful mists, maybe the people can as well.

The sand crunches under the prow of the ship as two dozen sailors pull it onto the beach of a quiet cove. A gangplank touches ground. The king steps onto wet sand – a gaunt, solemnly dressed man, his beard speckled with white.

“Let this be our first step of many,” he says, too quietly for any historian to take note of his words. He then commands:

“Bring the fleet ashore!”

As King Arthur gives his order, thick clouds of wyrdness on the horizon part for a moment. Knights and highborn gasp, looking upon a giant wall of strange, porous stone in the far distance. The king doesn’t raise a brow. He knew they wouldn’t be alone on Avalon, but he also knows humans have an ally here, which he has yet to see in person.

As Arthur looks toward Tuathan, something looks back from atop the wall. A flickering apparition, its countless eyes on the palms of its countless hands blinking in and out of existence. Just a moment ago, the creature witnessed the end of this story, one thousand years from now. And now, it’s torn. Should it allow this thing to unfold? And if not, can it prevent the true guardians of Avalon from being born?

Knowing each second of a millennium of the bitter struggle to follow, it has no choice but to try.

The End. For now...

15

You progress carefully through the narrow, dark tunnel. Your steps echo loudly in the otherwise absolute silence. You see something furry before you. Gain 4 Food and the “Means of Survival” part 7 status. Exploration ends.

Then, gain 3 Wealth. Exploration ends.

“We won’t tell you what you should do – we don’t presume to know. However, there are three paths to take here.

“The first is to return Avalon to the primal wyrdness, as it was before human invasion. The remnants of your humanity are not likely to survive that, or will change beyond recognition.

“The second path is to banish the wyrdness forever, transforming this island in the image of your homeland, though it would require a pristine example of the laws of your reality, since they have long since deteriorated. If you do this, all things born of wyrdness, or connected to it, shall perish.

“The third and final choice is to leave the island unchanged. Perhaps, in time, it will find a new balance – though it will never be a suitable home for humans, or for the former dwellers of Avalon.

“In each case, you must do something about menhirs – in their current state, they only contribute to the slow, cold death of the island. So... do you know what you must do now?”

- o Return Avalon to the primal wyrdness (this will end your Chapter, you won’t be able to change your decision later!) – go to Verse 70.

The chamber is magnificent! Vividly colored tiles adorn the high ceiling. Weapons lie on a splendorous altar – no doubt old burial gifts. You notice long scratches on the back of the sarcophagus, seemingly etched there in different eras.

Knights wielding spears and axes force more people into this structure. Panic rises as the guards bar the exit and approach with burning torches. Only five prisoners stay calm and gesture for you to come closer.

"The druids are no more – no one protects the natural order," they say, their faint voices difficult to discern through the tumult. "Winter protected humanity from wyrdness, and prevented anything from truly dying, but it also broke the cycle of nature. You must travel to Moonring and restore it, so its power can oppose the winter's harsh grasp."

They say something more, and your mind overflows with strange incantations, formulas, and images. Then, you wake near the cage, covered in fresh snow.

It may appear you roam the corridors without purpose, but each turn and path leads you closer to the heart of this sanctum. Soon, you enter a modest chamber with a pedestal at its center and a radiant vessel atop it. An aura radiates from it, so imposing you almost feel compelled to kneel. This must be the artifact described by that strange, old man. Despite your mounting anxiety, you take the warm goblet – and nothing happens. No god strikes you down. Your hands do not burn. The moment you touch it, the cup becomes real – almost mundane. You exit the temple with your new prize, ignored by the guard at the gate.

Each Party member gains 1 . Gain the Secret card 1. Discard the Active Quest Pile. Find and resolve the Chapter 12: Part 3 Event card. Exploration ends.

It was looking for you, having discovered that someone it knows is imprisoned in the Colony. You confirm its concerns and describe your meeting with Lancelot and the visions that came with it. The Fore-dweller seems agitated. It insists you must rescue the man. Immediately. A chill washes over you as you realize what it means. Could it be the man is indeed a lost knight of legendary Arthur this four-armed creature remembers from some ancient time?

The Fore-dweller cannot assist you in freeing Lancelot. Instead, it will go southeast to disperse the magical storm so you can escape through there later.

The Pale Lady looks at the surroundings with contempt. “You've noticed it, haven't you? The sad remnants of my people's great library. As you move past gnarled tree trunks into Grovesoul's interior, soil and old leaves fall upon you. You feel strange – you're entering a living creature, but it feels more like you're just in a different part of the forest. There is neither wind nor animals. Instead, you find a tent there with an altar set beside it. An intricate Allmother symbol and a journal bound in red leather lie on its surface.

You start reading. A priestess called Neante has found a place where the Forest of Whispers overlaps with another realm emanating the warmth of bright sun and the pleasant smells of fruits. She described how to find this place. In her last entry, she says she will enter the mysterious realm. You must follow her – this seems like the right direction.

Then, you flood them with your memories – how you grew and changed since; how you enslaved the western settlement and turned its residents into your worshippers. When the traveler knows all the consequences of their past deed, you offer them a choice of reward: gems, which you know humans always want, or a way to fight the cold by becoming one with it.

You see that something isn't normal here. The forest before you is darker and denser. Branches twist unnaturally, as if someone wanted to build something with them, but you can't discern what exactly. Then, the whole area in front of you rises with the thunderous sound of cracking wood. It also starts moving – and now, you can see it forms an enormous creature of shrubs, moss, and rocks. It towers almost as tall as a tree, and you feel like an insignificant worm beneath the piercing gaze of its eye of green, shiny stone. It speaks with a thunderous voice, like a boot crushing gravel. “Greetings, humans. Your appearance indicates that Avalon is again in need.”

- o Attack it – go to Verse 303.
- o Wait – But why should you? Go to Verse 246.

148

One bone pile looks different – like it was made on purpose. You throw some aside and uncover the serene face of a man buried beneath them, like in a grave. The body is frozen, so you can't tell if he died a week or a hundred years ago. You start to cover him again, to let him rest in peace, but you notice a wooden slate on his chest. It describes how to find a hideout free of wyrdness on the snowy desert west of here. You are slowly freezing, and your body won't resist wyrdness much longer, so it's worth a try.

Gain the “Mysteries and Visions” part 2 status. Go to Verse 234.

Hint: The notes lead you to the Frozen Desert. Go back and check what you can find.

Resolve the special “Grovesoul Punishment” blue Encounter in Verse 67.

154

You read about the founding of the Forest Sanctuary. A handful of people fleeing the wyrdness tried to find shelter under the menhir, but it was too weak to protect them. They encountered a priestess in the woods who told them to drag the menhir deeper into the forest and make their home there. They did as she said. Soon, she left, explaining she must visit a friend. No one has encountered her since then.

If you have the “Legacy” part 10 status, go to Verse 201. Otherwise, go to Verse 125.

Something tall appears from between the trees – it looks human, but with twigs instead of hair, walnuts instead of eyes, and thick knots of dried leaves instead of hands. Despite this, its skin looks like yours, and it wears brown armor. You ready your weapons, but the forest-man keeps his hands far from the axe hanging from its belt. Then, you notice a half-dozen desiccated heads hanging beside the weapon. The creature speaks: “Do not mind them – these are people who lost bets with me. And I'm not here to gamble. I have a gift for you, but I require something in return. If you don't want it, I won't bother you again.”

The Pale Lady takes the chalice from you and looks upon it with fascination. She tells you she wasn't expecting such a powerful artifact, one capable of bending and rewriting entire worlds in its image, dripping with visions of great humans, their triumphs, and their failures.

"I know the one you call Arthur has also seen this cup, a thousand years ago. But he couldn't bring himself to steal it. It's curious that the cup decided to go with you of its own volition..."

She then explains she's going into the Heart of Tuathan, where she will unthread the aura of this item, extracting the laws of your long-dead world that could be replicated in a proper ritual. In the meantime, you must prepare the island for the ceremony. First, you must find tools with which to carve the wyrdstone – a long time ago, the Pale Lady met people near the Forlorn Swords in the south who used wyrdsteel and wyrdstone in their craft. To get there, you must go to the Devastation and head south from there. Then, she shows you the symbols you must carve on menhirs to bind them with the Weeping Watcher, the greatest menhir on Avalon. She wishes you good luck and leaves.

If you have Secret card 1, discard it and gain the "Decision" part 1 status.

If you have Secret card 8, discard it and gain the "Decision" part 5 status.

Suddenly, the walls begin to tremble – you've got a bad feeling about this.

If you don't have the "Riches of the Past" part 8 status, gain 1 non-Companion Item, the Secret card 27, and the "Riches of the Past" part 8 status. Then, roll a die. You may pay 1  per Party member to add 2.

Gain the "Secrets of the Forest" part 5 status. Exploration ends.

168

The traveler doesn't want anything to do with you – they didn't help you, or at least they don't remember doing so. You laugh at them – if a couple of silly deaths caused them to forget their reward, it's their loss, and your gain.

Each Party member loses all . Exploration ends.

"Could you believe this place was once a hideous marsh? Now, it's one of the few beautiful places left on Avalon, proving that even when all things seem to dwindle and perish, some things are only about to begin. If I could choose a place to rest forever, it would be here, between these glimmering trees."

Exploration ends.

170

Although monstrosities surround you, you force yourself to speak freely. They didn't attack, waiting for your move. You say you're here to trade and to know more about them. It also tells strange stories about four-armed monsters that it was purportedly fighting.

The king and queen suspect this man is a wyrdspawn, but they don’t want to make a mistake and kill it without a reason, even if it’s insane. You are asked, or rather forced, to peer into this case and share your opinion.

The countless arms cradle you, floating inches away from your body. The creature who call itself the Ever-dweller explains it was waiting a thousand years here. After you convinced it to give humans a chance, it focused on making sure this chance won't doom the Fore-dwellers. And to do that, it made this anti-menhir, one that instead of repelling wyrdness, draws forth wyrdness from its primal source in the realms beyond the stars.

However, every menhir requires a sacrifice. In this case, the reversed menhir could only be powered by one soul. The Ever-dweller ambassador sacrificed itself to create these strange statue, but its sentience remains within.

Now, it tells you that your centuries-long path is coming to an end. Soon, you will make a decision that will change the fate of Avalon. To help you reach this turning point, the Ever-dweller wants to bestow you with a gift.

229

The menhirs scattered around Avalon always stood solid, unchanging, and in defiance of the wyrdness. Each contained a small fragment of reality ruled by cold reason and fact. The Fore-dwellers peered into this reality, viewing it as their underworld – a cold, unchanging hell.

It appears this statue also contains a small fragment of another reality, but this one is even more chaotic and shifting than what you see on Avalon; a place of primal wyrdness and pure potential. Suddenly, you hear words of acknowledgment inside your head, and gratitude overflows your heart. The woman explains in a weak voice that they all speak through their minds.

They feel a connection with you, and can, to some degree, communicate with you. The woman reveals a secret – many of their kind have gone mad and left Weeping Watcher. You know these vagabonds as Pilgrims. They boast the ability to conjure terrifying, painful visions. To keep you protected from their own kin, these people give you a fibula that Pilgrims should recognize.

Each Character gains 1 Exp. Gain Secret card 96. Then, Exploration ends.

233

If you have the “Parting Gift” status, the call quickly fades; go back to Verse 224. Otherwise, read on:

At first, the call is only a barely audible echo in your mind. You have to force yourself to think about nothing, silence your every thought, to start hearing it. Finally, you understand: the statue wants you to come over.

Suddenly, wyrdness surrounding the monument parts before you, letting you get closer. The exposed part of the flickering statue solidifies, turning into an immovable wyrdstone block. The call wants you to touch it, so you take a step forward and then place your hand on the block. The voice suddenly gets so loud it almost splits your head. The statue says you’ve met before, a millennium ago. You bested it and forced it to give up on its mission.

Each Party member loses 1 , gains 2 , and 1 Magic. Exploration ends.

But it tells you the weapon is a gift for you, so you can better perform your tasks.

As the Fore-dweller leads you through the forest, it tells you about the northern part of the island. If you follow an icebound river and go north from there, you will find two settlements – one is a towering, angular edifice inhabited by a lawful nation; the second is rather peaceful. Obviously, the Fore-dweller doesn't visit these settlements by itself. It is going in the same direction so it can go with you. It's strange, but you feel quite comfortable around this monster.

Soon, you're on the other side of the forest. You've marked the path behind you, so you will always find it again.

The tradition was sustained for hundreds of years, until the wyrdness claimed most of the island, and frost finished its work.

The number of inscriptions decreased from year to year. Only the most resilient people still journeyed here. The last inscription on the stone was made by Aderyn, the wandering storyteller, who wrote about the birth of Sloan, the descendant of Bryn.

275

“Still looking for knowledge? Good! The burden of an important choice rests upon your shoulders – one that will decide the fate of the island, and your entire world. We won't tell you which decision is right – we don't judge, we only teach. But right now, you have three options. You can return Avalon to the rule of wyrdness, as it was before humans landed here. You can transform this place into a mirror image of your lost Homelands – you already have the exemplar of the pristine laws of human reality that could achieve that. Or you can try to keep the balance and leave this place as it is now. In each case, you must do something about menhirs – as they are now, they only contribute to the slow death of the island.”

- o You choose to return the island to wyrdness – go to Verse 70.
- o You choose to stabilize the island – go to Verse 110.
- o You choose to follow the Pale Lady's guidance – go to Verse 304.

279

The Fore-dweller turns to you abruptly as if it just remembered something. “Rescue him,” it speaks in a commanding tone, “or I'll have to do it, and it won't be pleasant for anyone involved. Lancelot reappearing now after all these years is a miracle we can't let go to waste. Not to mention he might be the last decent human on Avalon. You have two days to free him peacefully, before I take the matters into my own hands.” Then, it turns away and leaves you.

Exploration ends.

280

The strange man apologizes for his burst of anger and invites you inside. He treats you to a hot meal and lets you warm yourself by the fire. As you rest, he suddenly stands and tells you that he is embarking on a journey and will say a kind word about you on his way.

Each Party member loses 2 Exposure, and gains 2 Rep and 1 Food. Then, Exploration ends.

281

You plow through debris, trying to make your way deeper into the cellars. Eventually, the corridor is so cluttered that you can't move on – you must go back.

Each Party member loses 1 . Go back to Verse 331.

282

“It was once a filthy borough at the feet of Kamelot, which flourished into a splendid town, then collapsed like everything else on Avalon. Sometimes I come here to speak with the only resident left.”

You ask about the inhabitant, but the Fore-dweller is silent.

Exploration ends.

283

You accept her quest. She sighs with the disturbing sound of air escaping her headless neck. She writes that you won't regret helping her. Then, she describes her head – black and gray, with distinctive spiral tattoos and pale lips. She feels that the head should be somewhere far south from here. Suddenly, you recall that a singer from Mangrove Huddle looks just like Morrigan described...

Gain the “Missions” part 7 status. Exploration ends.

New Task: Go to Mangrove Huddle and retrieve Morrigan's head. You don't have to go there right away; you'll probably stumble upon your settlement in the future.

285

If you have the “Carving” part 4 status, you already did your work. You may travel to another menhir – go to Verse 835, or keep adventuring if you have any unfinished business on the island – Exploration ends.

Otherwise, you may pay 4  per Character to start carving:

- if you have the “Decision” part 2 status, go to Verse 291.
- if you have the “Decision” part 3 status, go to Verse 264.

If you can't pay the cost (or don't want to), Exploration ends.

286

“Wait a moment,” the woman says slowly. “You resemble someone I read about. Could you tell me the names of your ancestors?”

You recall some names from the past, and the woman seems exhilarated. “It’s probably you! Descendants of the heroes who helped with settling a town near this stone a thousand years ago. I may be wrong, because many of the inscriptions contradict one another, but a reward has been waiting far too long.” She is so moved, you can’t force yourself to stop her and ask for more explanations. “It’s funny no one had found it before, as it was clearly written where the treasure was hidden. I cherished this small treasure, waiting for someone deserving of it.” She asks you to wait and returns with a small box of weathered oak – inside, you find several ancient coins and a beautiful talisman that has been recently polished.

Gain 4 Wealth and the Secret card 22. Exploration ends.

288

You climb the tree, feeling its rubbery bark under your hands. You touch one of the fruits that melts under your touch. Up-close, these fruits have a golden sheen. You bite into remnants of, what’s surprising, fragrant pulp. Immediately, visions of your death flood your mind – you’re impaled to the tree with a vicious spear, you die on plains covering the retreat of your friends, you die in the darkness. You wake up on the ground, filled with dark power boiling under your skin.

Each Party member gains 2 , loses 1 , and gains 3 Magic. Exploration ends.

289

You carefully study the changes happening to the statue, trying to count the number of its limbs and eyes and analyzing the anatomy of its face. Why all those eyes follow your movement? Why its smile is getting bigger and bigger? Did it have these teeth before?

Each Party member gains 2 . Go back to Verse 224.

290

Each Character gains 1 Exp. Gain Secret card 68.

“Finally, you have the tools and knowledge needed to alter menhirs. All you must do now is to visit and modify each of them.

The journey, however, should be much easier now – your experience in channeling the magic to disperse wyrdness has grown over the past months of traveling. You feel you can do it with minimal effort.”

Hint: Tampering with menhirs may attract Black Drifter, so it would be wise to start gathering allies on your way – it depends on your choices, but you may have friends in Forest Sanctuary, Weeping Watcher, Howling Nest, or Last City.

CONGRATULATIONS! You’ve completed your current Chapter! Discard all Event cards, including Active Quests. Then, either Save your game or draw a Chapter 14 Setup card and follow its instructions to begin the next Chapter! Exploration ends.

291

You spend hours carving new symbols on the surface and inside the monumental head. People look at you but say nothing – you feel that they know what you’re doing and don’t mind it. After your work is done, one of the local mages approaches you, and thanks for your efforts.

Each Party member gains 2 Rep and 1 Exp. Gain the “Carving” part 4 status. You may travel to another menhir – go to Verse 835, or keep adventuring if you have any unfinished business on the island – Exploration ends.

298

Resolve the “Frozen Wyrdness” purple Encounter (Difficulty 3). Exploration ends.

299

When you wake, you find that the man died of exhaustion and cold. He left a message for you, written in the snow with stiff finger: “You’re the worst scum of Avalon.”

Each Party member gains 1 . Gain the “Missions” part 2 status. Find and resolve the Chapter 2, Part 5 Event card. Exploration ends.

300

You find a pole stuck in the snow. You’ve seen something like this before – these sticks were used to mark trails. But you can’t spot another one, and you’re not sure if following this lead is a good idea, as it would require relying not only on your senses but also intuition.

- o Focus on the tracks (pay 3  per Character and 2 Magic per Character) – go to Verse 322.
- o Focus on something else – go back to Verse 90 and choose another option.

301

At the back of the chamber, you find a small staircase leading up to the surface. There is a heavy stone slab at the end of it, but you somehow manage to lift it up. It closes behind you with a loud crash. You don't think that you will be able to lift it from this side.

Exploration ends.

302

Resolve the special "Frightening Conversation" blue Encounter in Verse 162.

303

You charge at the beast, which defends itself without ardor.

Resolve the "Warped One" purple Encounter (Difficulty 3). Start the Encounter with 4 markers in the Combat Pool. If you win, go to Verse 355. Otherwise, Exploration ends – don't place the Guardian on the map.

304

Discard the Active Quest Pile. Find and resolve the Chapter 13: Part 6 Event card. Exploration ends.

307

You spend a long time planning the escape, looking for unlighted corridors, guard patrols, and alternative routes.

Gain the "Liberation" part 3 status. Go back to Verse 34.

308

Wyrdness sometimes sinks in shifting crevices of the statue, but you're almost sure that more of it flows out. You notice that places touched by wyrdness become stable for a moment as if they give away their ability to change. Maybe the wyrdness feeds on it?

If you don't have the "Shifting Menhir" part 2 status, each Party member gains 1 Exp; gain the "Shifting Menhir" part 2 status.

Go back to Verse 224.

309

Your journey between menhirs wasn't a short one, but you managed in the end. The time of your rest is getting closer.

Hint: If you haven't gathered your allies yet, it's a suitable time to ask them for help before attempting to finish your last quest. It depends on your choices, but you may have friends in Forest Sanctuary, Weeping Watcher, Howling Nest, or Last City.

Each Character gains 1 Exp.

CONGRATULATIONS! You've completed your current Chapter! Discard all Event cards, including Active Quests. Then, either Save your game or draw a Chapter 15 Setup card and follow its instructions to begin the next Chapter! Exploration ends.

310

"I despise this place, and I always have. Once, unlawful and quarreling villages, now a frigid, forgotten river. But it's the only way west, toward the broken druidic circle and my hometown."

Exploration ends.

311

Two skinny men wave at you – you think they belong to the Stayers, the camp that doesn't want to move deeper into the forest. They tell you that the Expedition, the second camp, is much stronger and has better equipment. People are almost convinced by them. The men ask you for support.

Go back to Verse 3 in the Forest Sanctuary Exploration Journal (238).

Hint: You have gained the required information, and now you can go back to Colony.

312

You recall the events in Forest Sanctuary. There is no threat of war or raids, they have internal problems focused on the survival of their settlement. One of the guards departs to contact their sergeant and returns, confirming your information fits the one obtained by their spies. You are admitted into the Colony.

Each Character gains 2 Exp.

If you are in Location 286, go to Verse 189.

If you are in Location 206, go to Verse 409.

313

- o Leave this unwelcoming place – each Party member loses 1 . Move all Party members to one chosen connected Location. Exploration ends.
- o Push through regardless of the conditions – go to Verse 592.

Gain the “Cracked Sanctuary” part 4 status.

If you're playing Chapter 8, go to Verse 267. Otherwise, Exploration ends.

315

The north isn't safe to travel. People there associate you with Lancelot, and will interrogate you if you're caught. You should let time do its work and not tempt fate. You're sure that later you will be able to convince them that Lancelot was indeed a creature of wyrdness that bewitched and manipulated you.

Go back to the start of the Twisted Pathways (225) Exploration Journal and make another choice.

316

The egg didn't hurt anyone – the guilty one is the Black Drifter. You decide to confront the monster, but you also accept that you probably won't be able to harm it. Still, you'll do whatever you can to make it pay.

Fyul gains 1  or 4 Exp. Exploration ends.

317

You observe as the menhir repels wyrdness. It's a beautiful sight. You start thinking about all the animals that will move freely through the woods again. Then, it strikes you – all the woods will also be available for the hunters from your town. You must share your knowledge with them, so they can extend their hunting grounds to Icicle Forest and Twisted Pathways.

Dagan gains 1 Exp. Gain the “Needed Supplies” part 3 status. Exploration ends.

Hint: If you have 3 parts of the “Needed Supplies” status, it's a good idea to share your discoveries in Mangrove Huddle.

318

You recall that you were here about fifty, maybe sixty years ago, during your previous life. You were guiding a woman who wanted to know about the past of her cursed family. You led her here, but she didn't have money to pay you for the return journey. So, you left her here, laughing at her. And now, her wyrdness- and frost-afflicted body lies shattered in the dark red snow. You won't redeem yourself now.

Niamh gains 4  and 1 Exp. Gain parts 2 and 3 of the “Past” status. Go back to the start of the Stone of Memories Exploration Journal (242) and make another choice.

319

You notice a weathered symbol on one of the portal frames – it resembles a cup, something that Lancelot mentioned earlier. All tunnels look the same, so you might as well choose this corridor.

Go to Verse 408.

320

A fair-skinned woman sits on the throne – she has unnaturally long toes poking out from under the edge of her velvet, black dress. Hands with sharp nails rests on her lap. Then, you notice she doesn't have a head, and if she were standing, she would be twice as tall as you. To your surprise, she isn't dead – she stands, and with a wave of her hand, she dismisses her savage entourage. You are left alone with goddess Morrigan.

She walks up to you, crouches, and starts scratching the stone floor. She writes down a request for you to find her head, missing for several hundred years.

Gain the “Horrors” part 8 status.

- o Demand more information – go to Verse 405.
- o Accept her quest – go to Verse 283.
- o Decline – go to Verse 428.

Each Party member loses 1  and 2 . Exploration ends.

322

You follow almost invisible clues – snow-covered poles, unnatural snowdrifts, and your own intuition. Finally, you find an entrance to a hideout dug in a small hill. There are some bedrolls and crates inside. You search through everything and find a stash of well-preserved rations, as well as four strange wyrdstone amulets, each a part of a larger statue. There is also a parchment along with them, explaining everything you need to know. They are supposed to be pieces of some old, portable menhir that helped ancient heroes navigate the wyrdness-covered lands. Unfortunately, they turn inert after some time, and to reactivate them, you need to imbue them with magic from any Fore-dweller artifact. Until now, you thought Fore-dwellers were just a legend! How could you find an item that belonged to them?

Gain 2 Food (1-2 players) or 3 Food (3-4 players). Each Party member loses 2 . Each Character gains 2 Exp.

Remove Location 201 from the game and replace it with Location 221. Discard the Active Quest Pile. Find and resolve the Chapter 1: Part 4 Event card. Remember not to change the structure of the rest of the Event deck. Exploration ends.

323

Fortunately, your actions didn't damage the menhir permanently, and only impeded it for a moment – you hope the horse had enough time to break from the chains of reality. Then again, the atmosphere in Forest Sanctuary shifted. Tinkering with the statue openly in the center of the village won't be forgotten by the people of the Forest Sanctuary.

Each Party member loses 2 Rep and gains 1 . Gain the “Chalk Horse” part 4 status. Exploration ends.

324

The shapeshifter looks exactly like you – they grab a bag lying near the door and run, shouting that you'll be destroyed. You don't have the power to stop them, and they disappear in the wyrdness.

Gain the “Horrors” part 3 status. Then, Exploration ends.

325

The beast was guarding a small chest...

Gain 4 Wealth, 2 Magic, and the “Wilderness Encounters” part 5 status. Exploration ends.

326

You prepare torches, ropes, and charcoal for marking corridors. Then, you enter the darkness. After hours traveling through claustrophobic insides of the hill, you discover the ruins of a large building wedged between two enormous rocks that stopped the mass of soil from flattening the structure. You step in – crushed skeletons lie everywhere, wrapped in formerly elegant robes that are now decayed rags.

If you have the “Legacy” part 12, go to Verse 352. Otherwise, go to Verse 369.

327

You were one of those who molded this community into its current form. You will be a part of their stories forever – maybe as a wise man, maybe as a shady villain, or a generous outsider. But you'll be there, and that's what matters.

Gain the “Great Deed” part 4 status. Then, if you have exactly 2 parts of the “Great Deed” status, go to Verse 510. Otherwise, Exploration ends.

328

Discard the Active Quest Pile. Find and resolve the Chapter 13: Part 2 Event card. Exploration ends.

Exploration ends.

New Task: Some time has passed since your last visit to the Forest Sanctuary. You should check this place later.

331

You descend into the underground. Disturbing the thick layer of dust reveals the tracks of inhuman paws and slithering creatures. Torchlight reveals three corridors leading into darkness.

Otherwise, choose one:

- o Pick first corridor – go to Verse 281.
- o Pick the second one – go to Verse 408.
- o Pick the third one – go to Verse 230.

Gain the “Darkness” part 1 status.

Resolve the “Reclusive Pigman” green Encounter (Difficulty 2). It does not have the Rush Trait in this Encounter. If you win (or Enemy Run Away), go to Verse 372. Otherwise, you flee and Exploration ends.

333

You squirm between dense roots when you see a tall figure clad in armor trying to lift a fallen tree. You notice that this warrior has four arms – it must be the horror that was chasing you right before you escaped into the snowy wastes! You make to retreat, when the head of the monster turns into your direction, ignoring the limits of a human body. “Help me, heroes,” it says with a blank voice. You notice the monster is trying to set free a man in shackles pinned under the tree. Two of the warrior’s arms lift the trunk while the other two pull the man. “Take this poor man to the human settlement to the south. Then, meet me here. I will compensate you for your trouble.” You hesitate for a moment, but you feel that this figure doesn’t mean you any harm. Also, the monster dwells in the Twisted Pathways, so it’ll be better to be on good terms with it if you want to cross this area.

Each Character gains 1 Exp. Gain the “Wilderness Encounters” part 4 status and Secret card 12. Discard the Active Quest pile. Find and resolve Chapter 2: Part 3 from your Event Deck. Exploration ends.

334

You share how to relight menhirs with the elder and those who want to listen – mostly hunters. You give them seedlings of plants resistant to cold. You tell them about Icicle Forest’s hunting grounds. You’ve done everything you can – the survival of Mangrove Huddle doesn’t rest on your shoulders anymore. The people are thankful, and the local smith gifts you with a masterwork hook – a tool and a weapon, to help you on your journey.

Dagan gains 1 Exp and Secret card 35. Gain the “Means of Survival” part 9 status and the “Needed Supplies” part 4 status. Exploration ends.

335

Rumors about forest dangers spread around the settlement. Some of the hesitant folks turn their views in favor of staying in Forest Sanctuary. Living in familiar hardship is better than going into unsure prosperity.

Gain the “Cracked Sanctuary” part 5 status.

If you’re playing Chapter 8, go to Verse 267. Otherwise, Exploration ends.

336

If you have the “Legacy” part 12 status, go to Verse 370. Otherwise, read on:

If you don’t have the “Hidden Caches” part 5 status, gain 4 Magic and the “Hidden Caches” part 5 status. Then, Exploration ends.

337

Monsters grab you ruthlessly and tie you up. They drag you somewhere, through the darkness – you’ve no idea what is going on. Then, they toss you to the ground, and you find yourself before a high throne.

Each Party member gains 1  and loses 1 .

Go to Verse 320.

338

You emerge from the Undercastle, exhausted physically and mentally. You leave the walls of Camelot and breathe frigid air that smells of freedom and sanity. You notice a lone figure on the cliff – it’s Lancelot, who raises his hand and walks toward you. He doesn’t spend much time on greetings, instead leading you to the forest, where Pale Lady is unskillfully butchering a boar. She approaches, tossing the quarry away, checks the Menhir Rites, and tells you that this should be it, but you must verify if they work correctly. Lady has prepared some artifacts that will bring you to a certain menhir she wants to try the rites on – she hands you a scroll that leaks shadow, gathering in dark spots on the white snow around you. Pointing at the boar’s carcass, she tells you to take the food, and read the scrolls aloud.

Each Party member gains 2 Food and 1 Exp. Discard all Locations from the play area and place Location 235 in the middle of the play area. Move all Characters there and go to Verse 417.

339

This time, you are led toward a prison chamber with deep pits for keeping prisoners. The man is held in one of them, the only one that is well lit and occupied. The man curses the guards, shouting that Arthur will come and behead them for their crimes. He somehow looks familiar, as if you’ve met him before. And the name “Arthur” evokes some deeply buried memories. Your mind drifts away. You feel as if you’re dreaming someone else’s dream – you see the Lancelot in a weird, shifting city, as he’s falling into a maw of wyrdness, flailing his arms... You are woken abruptly by the guards, who drag you away from the pit and shout that the beast hypnotized you. The guards show you a way to the dark, warm room, where you fall asleep at once.

CONGRATULATIONS! You’ve completed your current Chapter! Discard all Event cards, including Active Quests. Then, either Save your game or draw a Chapter 4 Setup card and follow its instructions to begin the next Chapter! Exploration ends.

"My Lady?" Lancelot asks. "You look... different."

"And you look exactly the same as a thousand years ago, Lancelot," the Fore-dweller replies. Then, they start a conversation that you cannot entirely comprehend – but you understand that the monstrous Fore-dweller is apparently the Pale Lady, a legendary figure from the past, the traitor of her race, and the savior of humankind. The man is Lancelot – a friend of King Arthur, one of the original knights who came here from the Homelands.

Eventually, Lancelot turns to you and asks if you would help him recover Menhir Rites from Kamelot – to restore menhirs to the state he remembers them in, and to save Avalon from its current misery. The Rites will also help you pursue your personal mission, as they will enable easier travel throughout the island.

For now, you are a wanted fugitive in the north, so you can only access the castle from the south, scaling the cliff near the Desert Hideout. The Fore-dweller, or rather the Pale Lady, tells you she will repair the ancient machinery leading up there. She takes the wounded knight with her, gives you several magical trinkets, and leaves, saying that she will be waiting under Kamelot's walls.

Gain the "Means of Survival" part 4 status. Discard the "Wounded Lancelot" Secret card (81). Each Character gains 2 Magic.

341

The room is in disarray. A shattered stone coffin lies in the center, covered in something that might be blood or feces. Vulgar slogans adorn the walls, insulting knights, Arthur, and the gods. The dismal aura of this place fills you with dread and disgust, but also with some strange energy that appears to seep from the shattered sarcophagus.

Each Party member gains 1  and 1 Magic. Go to Verse 301.

342

You enter the crumbling building after the wry creature, stepping over a dead fox carcass. You notice cloth and wooden toys scattered on the dirty floor. The Warped One lights a fire under a stove and starts making a soup, tossing frozen vegetables and meat into the pot. Soon, you eat with the monster, which is far more human than most people you know. When you take your leave later, it invites you to come again.

Each Party member gains 2 , 2 , 1 Exp and loses 1 Exposure. Gain the "Friends" part 1 status. Then, Exploration ends.

343

You find a house that doesn't bear signs of looting. You enter it and start searching around.

If you have 3 or more  or 4 or more , go to Verse 371. Otherwise, you were probably wrong, and this place has nothing of your interest – go back to the start of the Haunted Town Exploration Journal (227) and make another choice.

344

You have a feeling, similar to when you saw Lancelot, that you know this house, that you have been here before. You go toward the place where there should be a cache. You pry some planks in a corridor and find a well-preserved chest.

Gain 2 Magic, 2 Wealth, 1 non-Companion Item, and the "Hidden Caches" part 1 status. Each Party member loses 1 . Exploration ends.

346

A faint sound comes from behind the door as if something is waiting on the other side. You catch a glimpse of a red eye in one of the cracks between the boards.

Go back to Verse 361.

347

"Since time immemorial, everything that left Tuathan flowed through us, falling into the sea. We belched out the city's filth, but also its magic and weird, half-born powers. We are Tuathan's faces, and the city we stand for was a silent witness of everything that happened on this island. Detached from all conflict, free of emotion, the city gathered vast knowledge. Now, we help it share its wisdom with those who are willing to listen, for the right price."

Go back to Verse 11 in the Mouths of Tuathan Exploration Journal (262).

348

You grab a fruit, smudging your hand with sticky juice, and bite into it. It tastes delicious, but the sensation is so intense that you lose consciousness.

Each Party member gains 1 Food and 1 Magic, and Passes for the rest of the day. Exploration ends.

352

It must have been a palace, like one from the legends. Some golden ornaments and ancient equipment remain. If this place weren't so dark and frightening, you would like to spend more time here.

Gain 3 Wealth. If you don't have the "Riches of the Past" part 1 status, gain additional 3 Wealth and 2 non-Companion Items; gain the "Riches of the Past" part 1 status. Then, Exploration ends.

355

The monster's blood quickly freezes and forms small, red icicles. You step over its body and search the house. Unfortunately, there isn't anything of use – only cloth dolls, crudely carved horses, and a rusty pot.

Exploration ends.

361

You follow the strange, square tracks that might have been left by wooden shoes, but they also seem animalistic. The trail leads to the closed door made of nailed boards, elements of armor, and strange vines.

If you have 3 or more , you may go to Verse 346.

- o Slowly open the door – go to Verse 413.
- o Charge into the room – go to Verse 332.
- o Knock on the door – go to Verse 480.
- o Leave this place – go back to the start of the Undercastle Exploration Journal (260).

369

It must have been a palace, like one from the legends. You stroll through its dead corridors, finding gold ornaments here and there. Then, you find a door partly covered with a cracked boulder. On the other side, you see a small room with a skeleton inside. The walls are covered in writings full of hate and vengeance – they describe how a woman, named Siobhan, wanted to collapse Camelot by weakening the structure of the cliff, burning Crow's Nest to the ground, and conquering Timberwall. She planned to steal all menhirs from the island and make an impenetrable wall protecting Farshire from wyrdness. All those unknown names and madness hidden between words dull your mind, and you leave this dark place knowing that you won't forget its grim secrets.

Each Party member gains 3  and 3 Wealth. If you don't have the “Dismay” part 7 status, each Party member gains 2 Exp; gain the “Dismay” part 7 status. Exploration ends.

370

You spend some time trying to understand the diagrams and find that they describe how to dispel an illusion. Inside is a box with a worn-down inscription starting with “S,” but the rest is unreadable. You find jewelry, the most beautiful you've ever seen, and a small desiccated head that looks like it shouldn't be here.

Each Party member gains 1 . If you don't have the “Hidden Caches” part 5 status, gain the “Desiccated Advisor” Item (if it's not available gain 2 Magic), 5 Wealth, and the “Hidden Caches” part 5 status. Then, Exploration ends.

A tarnished inscription adorns a bar in the house. You try to decipher it and find out that someone has signed your name on it. You tinker around this bar and manage to pry it open. You discover a fat sack full of gold and an old letter that crumbles in your hand. The only readable part says: “...forgive me. I wasn't able to find you, so I've hidden...”

If you don't have the “Hidden Caches” part 6 status, gain 6 Wealth and the “Hidden Caches” part 6 status. Exploration ends.

372

You step over the pig's body and search its home. You find some disgusting yet edible food, some trinkets and, what's surprising, a book. Unfortunately, its pages are filled with scribbles made of blood and charcoal, and they don't make any sense.

Gain 2 Wealth. Each Party member may gain 1  to gain 2 Food. Exploration ends.

373

“There is nothing on this island that remembers how a true human looks like, not to mention humanity's past. But there is a place outside the island that remembers. Far away from here, in the northeast – beyond the forest that barely belongs to Avalon.”

If you have removed Location 238 from the game and replaced it with Location 258, go to Verse 400. Otherwise, go to Verse 390.

374

The elder takes the relic offhandedly, as if it's a simple chalice. He looks at it carefully and scratches its surface with a yellow nail. He tosses it back to you. “You have my gratitude, hero.” Then he leaves without a word, disappearing between the trees.

Each Character gains 2 Exp. Discard the Secret card 1. Gain the Secret card 8 and the “Gifts” part 6 status. Exploration ends.

376

Something is not right. If the Fore-dwellers desire annihilation, why do they stick so close to this statue and the wyrdness, instead of dying? You start to suspect that the Pale Lady is mistranslating their words or lying. You should learn more about your options for saving Avalon before you make an irreversible decision.

Go back to Verse 4 in the Last City (209) Exploration Journal.

Shattered clay bowls litter the floor. From the old soot on the walls, you presume that these must have been primitive oil lamps. Unfortunately, all rooms you encounter on the way are empty or collapsed. And, in the end, a stone wall blocks the corridor. You must go back.

Roll a die and add your . Check your final result:

1-5 – You fail to notice some loose stones in the floor. You fall on the sharp clay shards. Each Party member loses 1 .

6+ – You manage to dodge bigger strings of webs. Go to Verse 447.

You perform the ritual, chanting strange words, and spraying pillars with your blood. To your amazement, the stones rise and start floating and rotating slowly. It may just be your imagination, but you think that the area became... friendlier?

Remove Location 241 from the game and replace it with Location 261. Each Party member gains 2 Exp.

If you're playing Sloan and you don't have the "Great Deed" part 3 status, go to Verse 451.

Otherwise, Exploration ends.

You approach the strange woman – you know her! Once, you lead her here, so she could learn about her family and its curse. She couldn't have paid you for the journey back, so you abandoned her... You notice hatred in her eyes – she recognizes you too, but doesn't say anything. You apologize, knowing that it won't change anything. You don't ask for forgiveness, as you know you don't deserve it. You only ask if there's anything you can do for her.

She tells you that the only thing you can do is to stop coming back to the island. She's read the Stone of Memories and knows how many times you've returned under different names, in various times. It's time to die once and for all.

It seems like a good idea – dying. Nothing so far could kill you for good, but there's always this strange Fore-dweller city, Tuathan. You believe your definitive answer might lie there.

Niamh gains 1 Exp. Gain the "Past" part 2 status. Go back to the start of the Stone of Memories Exploration Journal (242) and make another choice.

388

This site is marvelous – the hot spring in the middle of nowhere is like an unexpected festival. You rest, warming your legs in the water and forgetting about your quest for a moment.

Each Party member discards the Exposure Marker. Exploration ends.

Lancelot opens his eyes and screams in terror, trying to get away from the blood-soaked four-armed monster. But when the Fore-dweller speaks, the man freezes in disbelief. "My Lady?" he asks. "You look... different."

"And you look the same as a thousand years ago, Lancelot," the Fore-dweller replies. Then, they start a conversation that you cannot fully comprehend – but you understand that the Fore-dweller monster is apparently the Pale Lady, a legendary figure from the past, the traitor of her race, and the savior of humankind. The man is Lancelot – a friend of King Arthur, and one of the original knights who came here from the Homelands.

Eventually, the Fore-dweller (or maybe you should start calling her the Pale Lady?) turns to you and tells you that she will lead you to Kamelot, where you have to find Menhir Rites – an ancient text about relighting menhirs. The future of Avalon depends on these rites, and they will enable you to travel easily through the island, pursuing your personal mission.

Gain Secret card 30. Place the Fore-dweller model in Location 296.

Go to Verse 330.

"The last one that has reached this place was a priestess, around four hundred years ago. She was living in the woods known as Forest of Whispers. Maybe there lie your answers."

Go back to Verse 11 in the Mouths of Tuathan Exploration Journal (262).

In the end, you manage to explain that they have taken you for someone else. The inquisition departs without a word, leaving you bruised and miserable. You remember a foul fetch from the cliff and his promise to destroy your lives. He was almost successful.

Gain the "Horror" part 4 status. Exploration ends.

A furious Fore-dweller finds you and tells you that you're pathetic failures. It declares that it'll save Lancelot on its own and rushes toward Colony.

Go to Verse 612.

You run away, but still, the hailstorm lashes your back with incredible power.

Each Party member loses 1  and 2 . Move all Party members to Location 246. Then, remove Location 245 from the game and replace it with Location 255. Exploration ends.

Go back to Verse 11 in the Mouths of Tuathan Exploration Journal (262).

Each Party member loses 1  and gains 1 .

- o Accept her quest – go to Verse 283.

Guards lead you through narrow, dark corridors. They open a heavily guarded chamber that smells of musk and something sweet. The first thing you notice is an unnaturally tall woman with a large belly, then a man, shorter than her, but still taller than other people in this room. Both the woman and the man have dark skin, which contrasts the light complexion of other people around. They are introduced as the royal couple.

Go to Verse 203.

410

Your attempts of conversation enraged the man whose face suddenly changes – it becomes a shapeless mass of flesh, and,

in an instant, it becomes your own visage. The man, or maybe a monster, draws their sword and charges at you.

Resolve the "Fetch" gray Encounter (Difficulty 3). It has a Defensive Trait in this Encounter. If you win, go to Verse 448. Otherwise, go to Verse 324.

411

During this Combat you can use Secret cards 57, 63, 89, and 98 even if they would exceed your Companion Item limit.

You can't Escape from this Combat, even as a result of the "You Are Dying!" card.

You must fight to the death!

If you run out of Combat cards during this Encounter, discard entire Sequence and take all your Combat cards, shuffle them – they are your new Combat deck, and continue the Encounter.

At the start of the encounter place a Dial, and a Quest Token, pointing to 9 (-1 per Party member). Every time an Active player plays a card, count down the dial (after resolving full effect of the cards and any appropriate effects).

When the dial goes to 0:

- Set it to 9 (-1 per Party member) instead,
- Active Player's Playing Cards step ends immediately. Resolve an Opportunity attack and proceed to Enemy Attack step,

Each Quest Token on the Encounter increases all of its  and  by 1.

You perform the activating ritual. The golden artifact turns to dust in the process, and the amulets glow with faint magic. You tinker with them for a time to discover how they work. Each can repel wyrdness, but each one focuses its magic differently.

Gain 4 Secret cards 20. Discard Secret card 44.

Go to Verse 20.

413

You slowly and quietly open the door. Something abruptly whips it from your hands, and you see an enraged pig standing on two legs hurling a chair at you.

Gain the “Darkness” part 1 status.

Each Party member loses 1 . Resolve the “Reclusive Pigman” green Encounter (Difficulty 2). If you win (or Enemy Runs Away), go to Verse 372. Otherwise, you flee and Exploration ends.

414

The webs catch fire, spreading quickly. Soon everything flares up with a blinding light, you hear ominous shrieks and hisses, and then, everything goes quiet. You enter the room, which smells of burning hair and flesh, where the smoking carcasses of giant spiders lie on their backs. This room was once a small library, but now everything lies in piles of crumbling ashes. But among the remains, you find a clay tablet containing a simple hex for opening magical barriers.

Gain the “Darkness” part 3 status. Then, Exploration ends.

415

“Tuathan is much younger than wyrdness that, according to its knowledge, is as old as Avalon. Or maybe even older. Fore-dwellers need it as much as humans need air. It’s also essential for worlds to function properly.”

Gain the “Clues” part 9 status and the “Truth” part 2 status.

Go back to Verse 11 in the Mouths of Tuathan Exploration Journal (262).

417

Greasy darkness spits you out onto a frozen river, into a sea of white, filthy worms. Lancelot stands, shaking maggots off. Pale Lady doesn’t seem to notice the writhing worms, instead approaching where the menhir is trapped under the ice. She tells you what you must do to prepare the ritual, and Lancelot helps.

When the rite ends, you feel as if something has moved in the foundations of Avalon, something that has slept beneath snow and ice. You feel power pushing the wyrdness away, emanating with magic instead of absorbing it. The Fore-dweller looks somewhat smaller than before, but she is seemingly content with this outcome. Lancelot tells you that he must have given away too much magic, and he feels exhausted. But you – you feel light and unburdened. Without the wyrdness here, everything looks, smells, and feels better.

Discard the “Leaking Magic” Secret card (24). From now, you won’t be able to absorb magic from menhirs.

Place a Menhir model on Location 235. Set the Menhir Dial to 8 (1-2 players), 7 (3 players), or 6 (4 Characters).

418

You try absorbing magic for the third time – you feel there is almost nothing left. As you wonder whether to give it another try, you hear the storm closing in. You look skyward and see the clouds collecting just above your head. A dense mist rises from the ground. Silhouettes wielding weapons appear within the fog.

- o Run as fast as you can! – go to Verse 393.
- o Stay – You must know what happens next. Go to Verse 446.

Each Party member gains 1 Exp. Gain the “Means of Survival” part 5 status. Go to Verse 388.

424

“Avalon is almost balanced. But the entity you call the Black Drifter disturbs the equilibrium – it sunders menhirs and saps the island’s magic. If you kill creature and restore the menhirs, then every creature dwelling on Avalon could live a decent life. If the balance tips any further, it could bring doom to Avalon.”

Gain the “Clues” part 9 status and the “Truth” part 3 status.

Go back to Verse 11 in the Mouths of Tuathan Exploration Journal (262).

428

Morrigan accepts your refusal. She tells you that if you ever visit her queendom, her children will kill you without hesitation. She claps her hands, and her monsters barge in to escort you out of the Howling Nest.

Gain the “Resentful Goddess” status. Exploration ends.

429

“Crow’s Nest,” Pale Lady says. “This was the name of this city. People lived and worked alongside their goddess or – at least, they claimed to. But their influence and military power were strong, so others believed their stories.”

Exploration ends.

430

You don’t know when this seal died, but it doesn’t matter. Frozen meat remains edible for a long time.

Gain 2 Food (1-2 players) or 3 Food (3-4) players. Gain the “Means of Survival” part 2 status. Exploration ends.

431

Pale Lady asks you to listen closely. She tells you her goal – to cleanse Avalon, erase wyrdness, and make the island a place for humanity to thrive. You can now light menhirs again, and with this knowledge, Pale Lady wants to empower the giant menhir beneath Tuathan. But it is impossible, or rather extremely dangerous, without an exemplar of the forgotten laws of the human reality. All smaller menhirs were conjured to spread these rules that repel wyrdness, but over time the seed in them became corrupted.

The giant menhir that Pale Lady intends to wake remains a blank slate. It needs a model set of laws to replicate and spread. Pale Lady searched for a suitable object for centuries, but nothing on the island remembered the true human lands. Now, there is Lancelot, a man born in the Homelands, a paragon of knighthood. You must bring him to the Heart of Tuathan, the only place where the wyrdness is still strong enough for Pale Lady to alter reality. And she needs you too – she feels the same power inside you that she encountered many times within many great heroes who changed the history of the island.

Pale Lady calms now. She has everything she needs to repair this realm. She will wait under the Fractured Tower in the west – you should reach it without incident, since the menhir has dispersed the wyrdness. Lancelot, until now listening in silence, offers his help, but mentions he is still weak, and likely can’t kill a wyrm with a single strike, as he did in the past.

Gain the Secret card 59. Discard the Active Quest Pile. Find and resolve Chapter 8: Part 2 Event card. Exploration ends.

Hint: Now, you can Explore the Still River to find a way west.

435

You reach Twisted Pathways, certain no one will follow. Lancelot, resting against a fallen tree, asks you why the menhirs are not working. You have powerful artifacts allowing you to move through wyrdness, yet nothing repels the deadly mist. Are there no druids to maintain the statues? He quiets as he sees a Fore-dweller approaching from the north. His eyes widen in fear as he realizes he carries no weapon with which to defend himself.

Each Character gains 1 Exp.

A frigid wind blows, and rime glistens on the grass. You know you're dreaming, but this vision is more substantial than the summer dreamland you're in right now. You ask Lancelot where to find them, but he doesn't remember – his memories are still hazy. All he knows is that they kept knowledge about menhirs and mysteries of the island in places marked with the Grail symbol – a simple cup or a goblet.

You're invited to a humble dinner. It's refreshing after your oneiric venture through a familiar yet unknown land. Soon, Oisin joins you and scolds one man for rearranging archives without his knowledge. You overhear something interesting – the archive section containing knowledge about menhirs and wyrdness was moved under the northern wall, without changing the markings on racks. You decide to investigate tomorrow, but today you've earned rest in a real, comfortable bed.

When you wake, it's black. You're cold, and everything in your body demands some movement. When you manage to light up a torch, you find yourself in the archive. You brush away dust from your face and look around – nothing has changed, you must have fallen asleep. But still, something is not right. Out of curiosity, you search racks in the northern part of this place, marked with a symbol of squares and compasses – and there it is, three whole sections with detailed studies about menhirs and their function. Soon you're ready to leave with a stone tablet describing the detailed ritual of relighting menhirs.

Pale Lady waits for you atop the monument, her armor shining in the sunlight. Several others surround her and touch her helmet in reverence. They look calm and content. When you approach, the Lady turns toward you and says she has prepared everything with the help of the locals. She also noticed that Black Drifter has been more active recently, and the great power released during the ritual will undoubtedly lure the monster, so she'll need your protection.

She adds that she would like to end this quickly, but if you feel unprepared for the upcoming battle, she advises you to find some allies across the island – you probably have made some during your travels.

You think about her words and ponder if you would be able to perform the ritual instead of her and convince her to protect you. She repelled Black Drifter during your travels, so it may be wise to try it.

Tunnels are too confusing, too uncomfortable, and too regular in their irregularity - they must have been created for some purpose. And you're sure it was a military purpose. You scabble around an area without strange slits and find a wooden door masked to resemble stone - it's not hard to be fooled in this darkness.

It's an entrance to the second tunnel, full of rusted weapons, broken levers, and other contraptions. From the slits in the walls, it would be an easy task to attack assailants trying to cross the tunnel. You search the area for something useful and find a weapon that is still in good condition.

Gain 1 "Weapon" Item and "Darkness Gift" status. Go to Verse 575.

648

It doesn't make any sense - why is there an underground den with nothing inside? Additionally, the frozen body can't be there by accident. You search every inch of this place and find another passage under the corpse. Deeper below, there is a vast chamber with an awe-inspiring Allmother's statue and three still priestesses kneeling before it.

If you have the "Allfather's Blessing" status, go to Verse 588. Otherwise, go to Verse 782.

649

You approach the source of the sounds. As you walk, you notice the strange behavior of nature, as if it doesn't accept your presence here: birds stop singing when you go past, ferns fold their leaves, escaping from your touch. Finally, you leave the forest and are greeted by a wonderful sight - a snow-white castle nestled atop a clear lake.

Two knights ride toward you from the castle. Their armor reflects bright sunlight, shiny horsehair unmarred by a single speck of dirt. You call out to them, but they don't respond. Instead, they take out their weapons and charge you. You try defending yourself, but you feel like a child with a stick fighting a wyrbear. Soon, a knight transports you, tied behind a saddle, towards the castle gate. You end up in the dungeon, which also looks just as perfect as everything in this strange realm. A barred window looks out on the lake and sky, showing everything a prisoner may yearn for. Your pallet is clean, and a bucket in the corner is hidden behind a short, elegant folding screen.

- o Wait - go to Verse 631.
- o Try to escape - go to Verse 700.

650

If you have the "Legacy" part 2 status, go to Verse 577. Otherwise, go to Verse 589.

651

"Avalon doesn't need saving. It was, it is, and it will be. Humanity, on the other hand, requires salvation. But do they deserve it?"

Go to Verse 670.

652

You carve symbols nested in other symbols - like those seen near the shifting statue in Tuathan. When you finish your work, the symbols start changing slowly, almost insensibly. Gradually, it will bring wyrdness back to Avalon.

Each Character gains 1 Exp. Gain the "Carving" part 1 status. You may travel to another menhir - go to Verse 835, or keep adventuring if you have any unfinished business on the island - Exploration ends.

653

The Pale Lady stands between three eyes of the monumental menhir and hits the stone under her feet with a pickaxe. White shards scatter around, and the Fore-dweller smashes again until there is a hole in which you could fit a human head. She kneels and places the Grail there.

"Don't watch me, look out for the Black Drifter," she snarls. Then, she starts chanting in the mind-flaying language of the Fore-dwellers, and the reality bends around her - the Grail retains its perfect form, but the air shimmers and the giant menhir begins to slowly transform. It's hard to avert your eyes, but the Pale Lady is right - you have to protect her now.

Soon, you feel a tremendous power behind your back - the menhir activates, but its influence is now stronger and stranger, a feeling similar to the one you had in the summer land of Corbenic. The air shouldn't smell like this. Or maybe it is you who shouldn't be here? Your thoughts are interrupted by the sight of the shadow in the sky - the Black Drifter is here!

Resolve the special "Charging Black Drifter" purple Encounter in Verse 411.

661

If you have the "Carving" part 1 status, you already did your work. You may travel to another menhir - go to Verse 835, or keep adventuring if you have any unfinished business on the island - Exploration ends.

If you don't have the "Darkness" part 8 status, go to Verse 665.

Otherwise, you may pay 1  and 1 Magic per Character to start carving:

- if you have the "Decision" part 1 or 5 status, go to Verse 701,
- if you have the "Decision" part 2 status, go to Verse 669,
- if you have the "Decision" part 3 status, go to Verse 652.

If you don't pay, Exploration ends.

662

You start explaining to Lady that she's better prepared for fighting the flying monster, and you, with a little guidance, can perform the ritual yourself. You saw Corbenic, you were in the place the exemplar is from, and you have mastered magic. She shrugs but listens to you.

Resolve the special "Hesitant Pale Lady" blue Encounter in Verse 436.

As you approach the menhir, you feel a frigid wind lashing at your back. You turn and see the portal larger than ever – its gaping maw stabilizes in reality, slowly devouring the surrounding snow. It's trying to eat you as well. A sudden pressure manifests, and you are slowly but steadily pulled toward the portal.

Roll a die and add your . Check your final result:

1-7 – go to Verse 679.

8+ – go to Verse 668.

666

Beasts catch up to you. You fall to the ground and are swarmed by monsters. They bite and slash at you with their mutated claws. They leave, seemingly satisfied. You, on the other hand, want to stand up and escape, but you can't – you can only crawl, bleeding from countless wounds.

Each Party member with Secret card 66 loses 4  and gains 6 .

Each Party member without Secret card 66 loses 2  and gains 3  and Secret card 66.

Exploration ends.

667

You carefully carve a hole in the Weeping Watcher's visage and place the Grail there. Then, you focus all the magic you can to inscribe powerful runes in the white stone – it's not easy, as something (or someone) inside the stone opposes your actions. You're not surprised: this menhir's very purpose is to stabilize reality, and you try to harness its power to warp this reality instead.

Finally, everything is prepared, and you start forcing the laws embedded in the Grail into the menhir's structure. The statue activates instantly, pushing the wyrdness and the new reality away – but you fight it with your power and knowledge. On the periphery of your vision, you notice the Pale Lady casting spells against the charging Black Drifter, as locals try to help her any way they can.

But you mustn't think of it, you have to trust them. The worst thing about this ritual is that you feel that the new order you try to impose upon this world is somewhat wrong. The more you change your surroundings, the more you feel like an outsider, someone dirty who trespasses a sacred ground – the same way you felt in Corbenic. But you have to finish it. And you do.

Drenched in sweat, you look around – no change is visible, but you're sure that you put the world in motion. Pale Lady is victorious and now tends wounds of the people who fought beside her. You want to help, but you sit instead, as your legs are too weak.

668

You struggle with all your might to hold the statue, and, after a while, the portal flickers and fades. The force pulling you toward the hole in reality disappears, leaving you alone with thoughts what horrors you have dodged this time. You also wonder how long this portal will last before vanishing away.

Each Party member loses 1 . Gain the "Darkness" part 8 status. Go back to Verse 661.

669

Repairing the menhir isn't an easy task – you must scrape off the frozen blood, smooth out the cracks made by frost, rework almost every rune. But in the end, your work is done – you know it's only your imagination, but this place seems less... grim.

Each Character gains 1 Exp. Gain the "Carving" part 1 status. You may travel to another menhir – go to Verse 835, or keep adventuring if you have any unfinished business on the island – Exploration ends.

670

"You think you have achieved something. You didn't. Maybe after a thousand years, you'll learn which questions you should ask," the king says, visibly strained. "Come back to me. In better times, with better lives."

Gain Secret card 91.

Hint: You may find two other cards you require in the other two campaigns: The Fall of Avalon and The Age of Legends.

If you have Secret cards 90, 91, and 92, go to Verse 678. Otherwise, Exploration ends.

You can use Secret cards 57, 63, 89, and 98 even if they will exceed your Companion Item limit.

You must fight to the death!

If you run out of Combat cards during this Encounter, discard entire Sequence and take all your Combat cards, shuffle them – they are your new Combat deck, and continue the Encounter.

At the start of the Encounter place a Dial, and a Quest Token, pointing to 9 (-1 per Party member). Every time an Active player plays a card, count down the Dial (after resolving the full effect of the cards and any appropriate effects).

- Set it to 9 (-1 per Party member) instead,
- The Active Player's Playing Cards step ends immediately. Resolve an Opportunity attack and proceed to Enemy Attack step,
- After this the Enemy Attack step, put a Quest Token on the Encounter. If there are no more Quest Tokens, nothing happens.

You try entering a trance, despite the horrible weather. You succeed and catch the attention of a ghostly warrior – she quickly tells you that you should run, because this isn't a place for civilians. Then, she curses that not only she has to fight other soldiers, but also the Fore-dwellers who joined the fray unexpectedly.

The battle is pure chaos. Pain and cold rip you from your trance, and you feel you must hide.

During the brief time of the rapture, you've discovered that frost of Avalon can trap echoes of long-lost souls. And if you find places with this phenomena, you could easily drain some magic from them.

Each Party member loses 1 and gains 1 Exposure.

If you don't have the "Horrors" part 9 status, gain Secret card 74 and each Party member gains 2 Exp; gain the "Horrors" part 9 status. Exploration ends.

678

You think that you know the question Arthur mentioned before... But you must mull it over. And when you do, you'll return to this strange land.

Exploration ends.

679

You struggle to hold onto the menhir, but you're too weak. As you get closer and closer to the terrifying portal, your whole body starts shivering under its frigid presence. With your last strength, you grab some planks protruding from the ground, straining your hands, but also stopping in place.

As you fight for your life, visions come to your mind. You see a dark place of chains and blood, all of them rattle as a man tries to break free. You see glass jars filled with oily blood – there are tubes connecting them to the man. He screams in pain and terror. You notice a hulking creature with scaly arms and a proud, brazen mask that stands by and takes note on a wax tablet.

The vision and the force pulling you stop abruptly at the same time. You lie on the ground, trying to calm yourself. You have a menhir to rework.

Each Party member loses 1 and gains 2 and 2 Exposure. Gain the "Darkness" part 8 status. Go back to Verse 661.

680

After you overcome the initial shock caused by the beauty of everything around you, you discover that the weather here is extremely hot. The air smells like fragrant resin, you hear joyful music and cheers coming from the distance. Trees surrounding you stand as tall as the one in Mangrove Huddle. They look too perfect, like monuments or an idea, but not real plants. Also, your wounds have closed, your mind has calmed, and your body regained its vigor. You feel as you are not you anymore, but a better version of yourself.

Each Character discards all Companion cards – it seems they were denied entry into this world. All Secret cards with Companion keyword are flipped face down instead. Each Character discards the Exposure Marker, restores all and , and loses all . Go to Verse 649.

689

690

You block the path to the hill and spread your arms to show that you don't want to fight. You try to look confident, but your heart quails.

Resolve the special "Reluctant Fore-dweller" blue Encounter in Verse 503.

699

The fetch decides to become a true Lancelot – he feels like the knight, and that his true, monstrous nature won't stop him. He vows to travel around the world and help those in need, hoping to find out how to make Avalon a place where sentient creatures of wyrdness can live alongside humans. But then, as the words leave his mouth, the last strands of the wyrdness disappear, and the fetch falls to the ground, screaming in perpetual pain.

Discard the "Lancelot" Secret card (59).

If you have the "Missions" part 9 status, go to Verse 714.

Otherwise, go to Verse 796.

700

You spend hours looking for any flaw in the security, but everything is perfect. The door is made of sturdy wood, bars in the window don't budge. You even try mortar in the wall, but it doesn't crumble. You must wait – there's nothing you can do.

Each Character loses 1 . Go to Verse 631.

701

New curves and runes allow the menhir to continue working, but also to transfer its energy toward Weeping Watcher. You even manage to engrave symbols in the frozen blood that now power this ritual.

Each Character gains 1 Exp. Gain the “Carving” part I status. You may travel to another menhir – go to Verse 835, or keep adventuring if you have any unfinished business on the island – Exploration ends.

707

If you have replaced Location 241 with Location 261, go to Verse 794.

Otherwise, go to Verse 738.

709

“I need to calm down. I’m too human, too unreliable. Give me a moment of solitude,” Pale Lady says to you and wanders off. You’re left with the fetch, who wakes up, looks at its gnarled hands, and asks with fear: “What happened? Why I’m like... this? What am I?”

- o Kill the monster – go to Verse 580.
- o Tell it that it is a fetch, not a Lancelot – go to Verse 561.

710

Black Drifter lies on the stone face, its dark blood flowing from the statue’s eyes and mouth. Cheering people don’t realize they are witnessing the death of a thousand-year-old being whose only fault is that it was scared of wyrdness, just like them. And even if they knew, it wouldn’t matter to them – the ritual is complete, and from now on, the island will change for the better.

If you have the “Decision” part 5 status, go to Verse 748.

Otherwise, go to Verse 759.

711

High shelves, many broken under their own weight, hang everywhere. Books, stone tablets, scrolls, and parchments lie scattered on the floor and stuffed in the racks. Frescoes adorn the walls, and one catches your attention – a tall hero stands by a prone man and defends him from a giant wyrdbear.

- o Study arcane knowledge (pay 1  per Party member) – each Party member gains 2 Magic. Then, choose again; you may not pick this option anymore during this Exploration.
- o Look for the Menhir Rites (only if you don’t have the “Darkness” part 4 status) – each Party member loses 2 . Go to Verse 727.
- o Find out how to stabilize menhirs (requires the “Decision” part 2 status; this will end your day!) – go to Verse 739.
- o Go back to the camp – Exploration ends.

714

Powerless Morrigan watches as her children writhe in agony for days. To save them, she had to help them adapt to the wyrdness. Now that it disappeared, this adaptation proved a deadly burden. Their passing is long and cruel. A divine heart is sturdy, but it can break like every other heart – with nothing to keep her here, and with her ears filled with the screams of her tribe, Morrigan, consumed by sadness and anger, curses humanity and leaves Avalon.

Go to Verse 796.

715

Amidst the airy dream that is Corbenic, behind the mists alight with gold, you find the Fisher King, still stooped over his oaken rod at the edge of a woodland lake. His weary eyes watch the water for ripples. The walls of the castle shine a pristine white, reflected in both his gaze and the mirrored surface of the lake. You hear only the buzz of dragonflies and your own heartbeat in this realm of contemplation.

“So, you’ve witnessed my failings,” the King says. “You were there in the beginning, at humanity’s fall, and at the end. You followed a path that began in the depths of Tuathan, and – through many different lives – ended with the fate of Avalon in your hands alone. Tell me: after all this, do you know the right question? Are you prepared to ask it?”

As you contemplate carefully, memories flood your mind. Hundreds of your incarnations – across time, of all sizes and genders, all imparted with the same guardian spirit of the same color – whisper to you in a single voice. Their collective knowledge leads you to a simple conclusion.

What is your ultimate question?

- o “Whom does the Grail serve?” – go to Verse 729.

716

You can’t sleep – your body and mind are alert, ready for danger. But what danger could it be? In the morning you’re more tired than the day before.

Fyul gains 1  and loses 1 . Exploration ends.

718

The Fetch, who was for the moment known as Lancelot, wanders Tuathan for months. Finally, it decides to become a true knight. For all its sentient life, it was a lawful man who tried to help others. Now, it once again takes up the mantle of a noble warrior and leaves Tuathan to help those in need, and perhaps – one day – build a new order of knights, one that will last longer and stand prouder than the Round Table.

If you have the “Decision” part 3 status, go to Verse 747.

Otherwise, go to Verse 744.

At first sight, the menhir seems to be in good condition – you think that you won't have to spend much time here. But you find out that crude attempts to light the statue damaged it almost as severely as the Black Drifter would have done. You begin intricate repairs and rituals. Your work lasts for a long time.

Each Character gains 1 Exp. Gain the “Carving” part 2 status. You may travel to another menhir – go to Verse 835, or keep adventuring if you have any unfinished business on the island – Exploration ends.

The man opens the door. You pass an unconscious guard and head out of the castle, without encountering anyone on your way. When you're outside, a safe distance from the castle walls, he tells you that you have to go east and then north, to a nearby temple. Inside, there is a chalice – the Grail – that exemplifies all human virtues, and the true meaning of being a human, radiating with power that bends entire realities to its shape.

It sounds just like what you need. But claiming the artifact is not all – after that, you'll have to escape this realm of mirages. According to the man, it won't be an easy task, as you'd have to wake up from this place, realizing it's not real. The man bids you farewell and reminds you that he'll be waiting here, in the willow's shade, for your return.

Gain the “Friends” part 7 status.

Discard all Locations, then place Location 272 in the middle of the play area, then attach Location 274 to its right edge. Then, attach Location 271 to the upper edge of Location 274. Move all Characters to Location 272. Exploration ends.

You see... yourself, your pockets full of treasures – you suddenly remember that you looted them from the dead bodies of knights and Fore-dwellers on your way to this place. You also remember the greed that overwhelmed you in the citadel, as you discovered an item of pure radiance; a shining cocoon above the warped throne. You wanted this item so badly. And so, you snatched it.

Go to Verse 800.

The Pale Lady doesn't look enthusiastic, but she agrees to help you in the end. “I can't stop you, so I may just as well keep helping your schemes, as stupid as they are. Your arguments are sensible, but I still think that you're wrong. But it's not my problem anymore. After seeing all of this, I just want to rest.”

Gain Secret card 30 and place the Fore-dweller model in Location 226. If you have the “Decision” part 3 status, go to Verse 734. Otherwise, Exploration ends.

Avalon is once again covered in thick wyrdness, but one place in the south resists its influence. A strange entity known as the Allfather, born from human hatred, changes the southern forest to its liking. Fore-dwellers visit the outskirts of these woods and pray for the tormented souls of their kin who will never escape them. The human name of this place, the Bleeding Land, is taken over by the island's new masters.

If you have the “Saved by the Goddess” status, go to Verse 765.

Otherwise, go to Verse 707.

During your travels, you've encountered many unsettling events and witnessed various effects of wyrdness. Still, one thing makes you think - most of this strangeness was inherited from the past. Almost none of it was born recently. And you learned on your own that wyrdness doesn't change people anymore - it's too weak, too dispersed.

In all the stories and legends, wyrdness was the prime agent of change in the world. After only one night, a whole settlement could have transformed, a vast forest could have withered, or a child could have turned into a deadly monster. You haven't heard about anything like this happening in your lifetime - to you, the cold is more dangerous. Could it be that the wyrdness is... dying?

Your mind strays in other directions, exploring topics of interaction between wyrdness and cold, the doubtful truth of the legends, and the differences between humans living in different settlements. Were all humans the same once, but they adapted to varying harsh conditions? Did they really arrive on this island a thousand years ago, or have they lived here forever? Were Fore-dwellers the masters of this island, and not just some monsters that came to life from people's nightmares?

One thing is certain - humanity prevails in this unwelcoming land. Wyrdness isn't much of a danger. The past won't change anything, and you should look toward the future.

If you don't have the “Truth” part 4 status, each Character gains 2 Exp and loses 2 ; gain the “Truth” part 4 status. Exploration ends.

725

After your combined efforts, the horse breaks free from the chains of reality, and its chalk body disappears in the sky. You won't be surprised if you see a new constellation in the sky tonight. You also feel surprisingly calm – as if a kind spirit watched over you.

Remove Location 239 from the game and replace it with Location 259. Each Party member loses 4  and gains 2 Rep. Gain Secret card 71 and the “Chalk Horse” part 5 status.

If you're playing Sloan and you don't have the “Great Deed” part 1 status, go to Verse 635.

Otherwise, Exploration ends.

726

A woman with a worn sword hanging from her hip approaches you – her eyes are full of desperation that contrasts with her charismatic figure. She tells you her ancestress met an All-mother priestess here, hundreds of years ago. This priestess told her that this place, where wyrdness and reality mix, is the only place safe enough for people to live, and should remain occupied as long as people hope to survive on Avalon. The mayor asks you to take part in her speech; she doesn't need anything more from you.

- o Take part in the mayor's speech – go to Verse 335.
- o Refuse to help – go to Verse 314.

727

You look for shelves and tomes marked with the cup symbol. There are several bookstands here, all full of thick volumes, scripts, and tablets. After reading dozens of titles, from “The Strange Stone and its Origins” to “Are Menhirs Older than the Fore-dwellers?”, you find a “Rites for Enhancing Menhirs' Potency.” But it's only a book cover. Its contents are lost! You sit down under the wall to rest a bit before starting a random search through thousands of texts. You are so tired that you fall asleep.

Gain the “Darkness” part 4 status.

Put the Special Event E on top of the Event Deck. Then, place 3 Random Events on top of the Event Deck.

Go to Verse 740.

728

You watch the wyrbear ripping the man apart. Why didn't you do anything? All the blood, gore... It also strikes you suddenly that this man knew how to light menhirs! You want to move on, but you can't. Time rushes forward. Small animals eat the remains of the corpse, then it disappears. The menhir is never lit again. The first snow falls... You fall asleep.

Go to Verse 740.

729

The Fisher King smiles beneath his beard and slowly nods.

“So simple a question, isn't it? And the answer is likewise. So, whom does the Grail serve in the end? The kingdom? The gods? The knights and kings of our mortal world?”

Yet again, an answer comes to you effortlessly.

- o “The Grail serves only those who seek it.” – go to Verse 752.

730

The four-armed monster lies dead, wyrdness seeping out of its body and sinking into the leachy ground like thick mist.

Go to Verse 770.

As you are moving past the hot springs, a group of people stops you. They ask about rumors of you helping the strange prisoner escape.

If you have the “Liberation” part 5 status, you use the hunchback's artifact and put them to sleep before they can raise the alarm – Exploration ends.

Each Party member gains 2 Exp. Exploration ends.

If you can't pay the cost (or don't want to), Exploration ends.

Gain the “Decision” part 4 status. Exploration ends.

738

- If you have the “Decision” part 1 status, go to Verse 880.
- If you have the “Decision” part 2 status, go to Verse 760.
- If you have the “Decision” part 3 status, go to Verse 773.
- If you have the “Decision” part 5 status, go to Verse 783.

739

Once again, you search the Archive. First, you try shelves marked with the Grail symbol, but there's no interesting information there. Then, you go through the texts at random, and after many hours of grueling work, for body and mind, you find notes made by Arthur and Nimue, Merlin's apprentice. They describe how they tried to stabilize the menhirs and further develop the Menhir Rites. You combine this knowledge with your experience, and you think that you know what you have to do. And you're surprised that it won't be that challenging.

Gain the "Decision" part 4 status. Each Party member loses all , gains 2 , and Passes. Exploration ends.

740

You open your eyes, awoken by unexpected heat. You lie in a damp, green meadow, decayed wooden poles sticking out of the ground all around you. There is no sign of snow or ice! You notice a man kneeling before a menhir's head that protrudes from the ground. He touches the statue, and immediately the atmosphere feels more pleasant, like in the settlements and some sanctuaries you've visited. You call to the man, but he faints from exhaustion. And from the forest, a wyrbear approaches...

- o Protect him – go to Verse 761.
- o Don't do anything – You don't know what is happening. You must be dreaming. Go to Verse 728.

741

When you are ready to step into the strange area, a madman appears out of nowhere and grabs you by your shoulders. His breath smells like sweet fruits, contrasting with his otherwise poor state. You push him away, and he starts talking about incredible things – that humanity has fallen, but it also blooms. That Red Death has never existed, but because of it, people came to Avalon and made its creator. And that everyone is dead but living. Suddenly, he screams and runs out into the woods.

Go to Verse 680.

744

After stabilizing the menhirs and killing the Black Drifter, you embark on your last journey through Avalon to teach people how to tend their statues. It's time for everyone to have this crucial knowledge, so that the Menhir Rites are never lost again, as long as humans remain on Avalon.

Hint: If you have Secret cards 90, 91, and 92, your history doesn't end here as someone awaits you in a mysterious land.

Go to Verse 796.

745

You decide that this is the time to begin thinking about Avalon's future and go into the infamous Tuathan.

If you have the "Past" part 2 status and don't have the "Past" part 3 status, go to Verse 769.

Otherwise, read on:

CONGRATULATIONS! You've completed your current Chapter! Discard all Event cards, including Active Quests. Then, either Save your game or draw a Chapter 9 Setup card and follow its instructions to begin the next Chapter! Exploration ends.

746

You swing the axe. When it connects with the neck, the woman starts screaming so loud your ears begin to bleed. After a moment, the head laughs despite being detached from its body. Not a single drop of blood flows out of the severed neck.

"Are you afraid of a decapitated woman?" she nags you. "Oh, so much fun! I forgot that being murdered is so thrilling!"

Gain Secret card 16. Each Party member gains 3 and loses 1 . Exploration ends.

747

With each passing day, the wyrdness is getting denser. Avalon is returning to its primal state. You know it means that one day every human on the island will die or change beyond recognition. Still, you believe that's the right decision – from scraps of information you've concluded that human interference with this world disrupted the balance of the entire world. Humans should never take Avalon or try to change it into what it isn't.

You avoid settlements to escape your creeping guilt and go to the Desert Hideout, where your journey started, to spend your last days there.

Hint: If you have Secret cards 90, 91, and 92, your history doesn't end here as someone awaits you in a mysterious land.

Go to Verse 796.

748

The Pale Lady looks around frantically. "Something isn't right," she says, gasping as the wyrdness begins to disappear as far as the eye can see. "The ritual wasn't disturbed, the exemplar was perfect... What's happening? Can't you feel this hateful presence?"

Go to Verse 792.

749

Wyrdness isn't welcome in this area, which makes the work on the menhir twice as difficult. Additionally, people from Forest Sanctuary protected themselves against the Black Drifter, so it didn't get to damage the statue. You start working – you create new scratches and wipe some runes away to hinder the menhir's potency, then add new symbols and infuse wyrdstone with intricate hexes. Soon, you notice that some of the symbols start changing on their own – the shifts are almost unnoticeable, but, as time passes, this statue will start creating wyrdness.

Each Character gains 1 Exp. Gain the “Carving” part 2 status. You may travel to another menhir – go to Verse 835, or keep adventuring if you have any unfinished business on the island – Exploration ends.

750

Days pass, and you only grow weaker. Your drive to perform heroic deeds fades slowly – in Tuathan, you learned that your power was somehow connected to the wyrdness, so perhaps it's not surprising it begins to disappear as well. You decide to stay in the Weeping Watcher – its inhabitants care for you, but you can see their condition is also getting worse. You can only hope you will all pull through this.

Hint: If you have Secret cards 90, 91, and 92, your history won't end here as someone awaits you in a mysterious land.

If you have the “Dismay” part 5 status, go to Verse 699.

If you have the “Missions” part 9 status, go to Verse 714.

Otherwise, go to Verse 796.

752

“A fact it took me all too long to understand,” the Fisher King says with a sigh. “The Grail was made to be sought, not to be found. It is a goal to which we strive, but never achieve. You see, a person could have all the riches and happiness of the world yet they would still desire more – the return of a loved one from the dead, a frontier unseen, a new life in a different time, in a different world....”

“Humans are not designed to be content with what we have. We desire always what lies beyond the next hill, or around the next bend in the road. And the Grail ... well, it provides us with the ultimate, purest goal.”

The morning wind chases away the mists, and the castle on the lake shimmers blindingly like a mirage.

“The first time I stepped into Tuathan, I was sure the Grail was a missing piece of my legend. I thought that if I created one of wyrdness, all would be complete. I was never meant to find the Grail, though – no one is. In my arrogance, I used a primal, dangerous power to obtain that which should remain unobtainable.”

As he speaks, you find it hard to focus on his words. Your shoulders feel peculiarly light. The ground beneath your feet seems to dissolve.

“Do not be alarmed,” the Fisher King says. “You asked the right question. In very few legends of the Grail there is one capable of doing that. The Grail has accepted you.”

As everything dissolves into pure light, you hear the distant final words of the Fisher King – of Arthur Pendragon, the Once and Future King.

“Time to begin anew.”

Discard all Location cards. Go to Verse 815.

754

You spot a straight scratch on the floor that doesn't look natural. Upon closer inspection, you manage to prize open a hidden trapdoor, leading somewhere below. Once, there was an iron ladder, but it's rusted beyond use. You manage to climb down, anyway – to a tiny room with the body of a frozen priest lying on the ground.

If you don't have the “Hidden Caches” part 2 status, you find some sacred trinkets beside him – gain 3 Magic and the “Hidden Caches” part 2 status.

If you have 3 or more , go to Verse 648. Otherwise, Exploration ends.

755

Morrigan leads you to the outskirts of Glimmering Forest, where she casually orders you to murder herself. She hands an axe to you, smiles mockingly, and puts her head on an old log. “Don't keep me waiting,” she hurries you.

- o Kill her – go to Verse 746.
- o Don't do it – You can't kill an innocent woman! However crazy she is! Exploration ends.

756

The menhir in Forest Sanctuary is in excellent condition – people from the settlement protected it from the Black Drifter, and the proximity of the mysterious woods kept the wyrdness away. Unfortunately, it's not a good sign, because you have to weaken its coherence before changing its structure. You work for hours, modifying each rune, adding small scratches, and polishing unwanted symbols. Soon, the menhir starts channeling its energy toward Weeping Watcher.

Each Character gains 1 Exp. Gain the “Carving” part 2 status. You may travel to another menhir – go to Verse 835, or keep adventuring if you have any unfinished business on the island – Exploration ends.

757

You observe the nest on the water, but it doesn't seem the Black Drifter is there. It must be out, draining menhirs for magic, but it's a good thing - the battle on the lake would be clearly to your disadvantage, and now the beast will be tired after the long flight.

Still, if you don't pose any threat or seem like something tempting, the Black Drifter will probably ignore you. Along with a trap, you have to prepare a magical lure. And when the fight starts, the Drifter won't escape, as it will be protecting its nest. Or at least you think so.

- o Leave – You are not ready yet. Maybe you can find some help in friendly settlements? Exploration ends.
- o Prepare a trap (pay 3 Magic per Character; this will end your Campaign!) – go to Verse 779.

Hint: If you have any allies on the island, it would be wise to ask them for help.

758

The man tells you that his name is Cisonus. When you don't react, he says that he is a god that should have arrived here earlier, but he was traveling through strange southern lands. He didn't notice that a thousand years have passed. Now that you are the only one that he could be a patron of, he will give you his blessing. You feel a strange, immense power emanating from Cisonus, as he touches your head. Then, he leaves this place so fast you lose sight of him after a few heartbeats.

Gain the “Friends” part 8 status. Each Character gains 2 Exp, restores all  and , and loses all . Exploration ends.

759

The ritual is complete. The magic gathered in the Black Drifter's blood enhances its effect, and the wyrdness is visibly pushed away. Soon, it will disappear from the whole island.

“At last, I did it,” the Pale Lady says. “I may now rest in peace.” She tries to smile, but she winces instead, as the pain overwhelms her.

Go to Verse 792.

760

Menhirs protect the island once again, drawing the line between the human world and wyrdness. Wandering storytellers take responsibility for teaching people about the maintenance and importance of the statues.

Later, trade blooms again, as people tentatively start to travel Avalon as they did in the old days. The communities, separated for centuries, are often very different, but it doesn't force them apart – they exchange information and make progress based on it. Life on Avalon is not perfect – it's harsh and demanding, but, at least, it goes on.

Go to Verse 900.

761

You approach the wyrbear, which runs away startled. That's strange behavior... And it strikes you again – the air is warm, and there is no snow. Many trees have leaves, mainly brown and yellow, but you also see splashes of green. Where are you? You set a makeshift camp near the unconscious man and wait for him to wake up.

Go to Verse 780.

765

The cost of miraculous salvations that happened to you on your journey from the white deserts to the lair of the Black Drifter was high. A whole village died because of a simple disease in a distant land. A child lost her mother, who bled out from a shallow wound. A desperate couple never became parents. None of this would have happened if the Allmother had the time and power to answer their prayers - but she was too occupied keeping you alive.

Suggestion: We suggest you should cross out or destroy your Save Sheet. Only achievements made without any help should be carried over to the next campaigns!

Go to Verse 707.

769

You are excited and terrified. You, Niamh, will finally be able to understand your fate and decide if you should put an end to your miserable life or redeem yourself in some way.

CONGRATULATIONS! You've completed your current Chapter! Discard all Event cards, including Active Quests. Then, either Save your game or draw a Chapter 9 Setup card and follow its instructions to begin the next Chapter! Exploration ends.

You return to your post. You're so concentrated on the surroundings, looking for anything that could interrupt the ritual, you don't notice the cloud of wyrdness behind your back suddenly expands and engulfs you. You feel like falling, as the landscape around you shifts erratically.

When your vision stabilizes again, you see a hulk of a man clad in enormous armor standing inside a whirlwind of wyrdness, similar to the one that surrounded the Pale Lady. He rests upon a blade, driven into the ground, his eyes closed, his face a mask of utmost focus.

To the side, a wild battle takes place, some people you barely see facing a flickering creature with countless arms and eyes. In the meantime, the man you now recognize as Arthur begins to shape the torrent of wyrdness. Giant foundations emerge from nothingness around the king, and upon them, giant walls. A room is formed, and on its floor, a circular platform rises up, surrounded by pylons of wyrdness taking the shape of knights.

What is this madness? Is the king trying to shape a round table out of wyrdness?

Arthur twitches. He's exhausted, in pain, and quickly losing focus. The citadel begins to skew, stones running like tar. The unfinished table falls to the floor, turning into a round pit. Something red boils deep down. The statues begin to warp, and you see several barely visible clouds of color escaping them, and float towards people who have just entered the stillborn citadel, looking for their king.

If you're playing Niamh and you don't have the "Past" part 3 status, go to Verse 721. Otherwise, go to Verse 800.

Reworking the menhir is difficult, because it was damaged by frequent assaults by the Black Drifter. Many parts of the statue are missing, and you almost can't feel its magic. But in the end, the once forgotten knowledge about menhirs and the wisdom of the Pale Lady were enough for you to change the menhir to a magic relay.

Each Character gains 1 Exp. Gain the "Carving" part 3 status. You may travel to another menhir – go to Verse 835, or keep adventuring if you have any unfinished business on the island – Exploration ends.

Avalon is once again a mysterious land covered in boiling mists. Small groups of Fore-dweller survivors leave their hideouts and start harnessing the power of wyrdness to rebuild Tuathan, and everything humans destroyed with it.

Far, far away, beyond the ever-changing seas, in the lands ravaged by the plague, a ragged and brutish group of survivors that lived through a millennium of apocalypse, quickly learn that something has changed. A supernatural calamity that has been plaguing them ever since Avalon was disturbed, appeared to be subsiding without any clear reason.

Go to Verse 900.

Ghostly figures clad in ethereal armor surround you and accuse you of being a wyrdspawn. They sense dark powers dwelling in your bodies, and by the power invested in them by Arthur, they sentence you to death.

Resolve the special "Ethereal Prosecutors" blue Encounter in Verse 610.

You prepare a lure from your magical trinkets and let their power leak slowly into the air. Around them, you prepare the best trap you could think of - using your cunning, knowledge of the Black Drifter's powers, and terrain advantage. When everything is ready, you have nothing else to do but wait.

Your short rest is interrupted by the sound of wings - you look at the red-tinted sky and see the dark silhouette of your well-known enemy. You observe from your hiding, as it changes its course to land on your trap. Nets fall on its wings, spears and hooks impale its body, and intricate runes sap its magic. You charge at the beast, determined to end it once and for all.

Resolve the special "Trapped Black Drifter" purple Encounter in Verse 671.

780

Discard the “Leaking Magic” Secret card (24). Place 2 Random Events on top of the Event Deck.

Discard all Location cards from the play area. Find Locations 115, 117, 119, 140, 142, 157, and 190 from The Fall of Avalon campaign. Place Location 140 in the middle of the play area and attach Locations 157 and 117 to it. Place a Menhir model and all Character models on Location 140. Set the Menhir Dial to 4 (1-2 players) or 3 (3-4 players).

If you don't remember the Menhir rules, check the Rulebook (p. 10-11).

Each Character Passes. After the Start of the Day, go to Verse 795.

781

The menhir is in awful condition. The Black Drifter is a frequent visitor here, and the statue is severely damaged. You have to rework some parts, repair almost everything, and sometimes even make new elements. You are carving for a very long time, but in the end, you're done. It will take some time, but the menhir will work as it was working a thousand years ago. At least, you hope so.

Each Character gains 1 Exp. Gain the “Carving” part 3 status. You may travel to another menhir – go to Verse 835, or keep adventuring if you have any unfinished business on the island – Exploration ends.

782

The priestesses look alive, but they don't move or even breathe. This chamber is imposing – overwhelming and beautiful at the same time. It's not a place for you, and you don't know what to do with yourself.

If you don't have the “Mysteries and Visions” part 8 status, each Party member gains 1 Exp and loses 2 ; gain the “Mysteries and Visions” part 8 status. Exploration ends.

783

Humans prevail on Avalon – at least those who are the least influenced by wyrdness. The Allfather's inquisition performs a second, even more cruel culling, getting rid of everyone who does not share their faith. With the herd trimmed down to include only faithful, humanity begins to rebuild – large cities grow on the wyrdness-free island, with their main purpose of worshipping the Allfather. People are safe and ready to prosper. But are they free?

Go to Verse 900.

789

The Keeper of Secrets grows above and below Tuathan. Over time, it gets so enormous that it can be seen from every corner of Avalon. Its presence is intimidating, but it never extends its tendrils beyond the city's walls. Yet, no one who tries entering Tuathan ever comes back. The inhabitants of the island live in constant fear of enraging the Keeper.

If you have the “Chalk Horse” part 5 status, go to Verse 840.

If you have the “Cracked Sanctuary” part 7 status, go to Verse 817.

Otherwise, go to Verse 860.

790

Resolve the special “Morrigan's Head” blue Encounter in Verse 805.

791

Morrigan is delighted. It has been around one hundred years since someone has out-talked her. Suddenly, she stops smiling and tells you she doesn't want to return to her body – sitting on that damned rock is too boring. In hindsight, traveling and meeting people seems much more entertaining. Still, you've earned your prize – and if you insist, she will allow you to take her head, though under one condition: she wasn't murdered for a very long time, so you'll have to chop off her head yourself. Or you may leave her here, and she will share some of her knowledge in return.

Gain the “Missions” part 8 status.

- o Kill the woman and take her head – go to Verse 755.
- o Promise not to bother her – go to Verse 732.

792

Soon after the ritual, the Pale Lady falls to the ground. It seems that she's suffocating, as if she can't live in a place completely devoid of wyrdness. She tries to tell you one last thing, but she dies in your arms, unable to utter a single word. You give her a burial worthy of a true champion of humanity, and as her body is laid to rest, you shed a tear – not only for the Lady, but also for all other things that will soon have to go away.

Wyrdness disperses quickly – at first, this brings joy to all human settlements. Then, many people discover that they start to get sick and wither. The culling begins, and those who were too far gone, and too changed by wyrdness, have to disappear with it.

If you have the “Friends” part 8 status, go to Verse 813.

Otherwise, go to Verse 750.

794

With the Moonring rotating in the sky once again, the cycle of nature and the seasons of the year hesitantly came back to Avalon.

Go to Verse 738.

795

The man, Oisín as he introduces himself, awakes at dawn, surprised that he's still alive. He thanks you for your help, but tells you that he doesn't have time to spare. He has to go back to Camelot. He's still weak because he used up too much of his life force the day before. He asks you for aid in reaching the citadel – you agree, as you don't have any idea what is going on, and maybe getting back to the castle will help you somehow. Also, he cautions you against wandering to the east, because strange beasts live by the sea.

Gain the "Delusion" Secret card (70). Each Character discards their Exposure Marker. Don't use the Exploration Journal from The Fall of Avalon campaign! When you Explore any of these Locations go to the Delusion Exploration Journal (270) – it's a Location entry, not a Verse in the Book of Secrets. Also, ignore the lightning symbol ⚡ when Traveling to Locations.

Exploration ends.

800

The strange heroes who somehow feel familiar run into the chamber of the failed Round Table. Your vision jerks violently. The next thing you see is the broken king, looking upon his work: a castle in the heart of Tuathan, in the exact same spot you're in now, hanging upside down and malformed; a twisted caricature of Camelot.

Go to Verse 801.

801

Visions of the past fade away as the wyrdness dissipates. The castle is gone, and the Pale Lady, who stands in its place, shrieks loudly. Before her lies a gruesome monster, its face is changing abruptly. Sharp claws replace fingers, armor on its back turns into pale skin.

The Pale Lady comes to her senses and tells you that the thing is in fact Lancelot. A damned fetch – a devious, shapeshifting monster that must have taken the knight's place a very long time ago and deluded itself into thinking it was the real Lancelot! It has some memories of the knight and his world, but it is nevertheless a creature of wyrdness. It won't do as the perfect specimen of the human reality. The Pale Lady curses herself – how could she not see this before dragging you all the way here?

You, on the other hand, can't help but feel pity for your former companion. On its shifting face, you see more than just physical pain. The would-be Lancelot suffers from learning the truth about itself no less than the Pale Lady does.

If you have the "Horrors" part 1 status, go to Verse 820. Otherwise, go to Verse 709.

The Black Drifter lies on the shore, its dark blood tainting the crystal-clear water. You want to celebrate this victory, but you can't – you're sad you've killed a being who fundamentally wasn't that different from you. The Drifter was also scared of wyrdness, doing everything it could to run away from it. And for this – it was killed. You look at the water and think about your own uncertain future. What will you do now?

If you have the “Decision” part 3 status, go to Verse 821.

If you have the “Dismay” part 5 status, go to Verse 718.

Otherwise, go to Verse 744.

You find the old singer without a problem – her distinct voice and her unwonted appearance are quite famous in this settlement. When you speak the name Morrigan, her tattooed face contorts with fury. “Leave. Now!” she shouts, her voice full of sinister tones.

- o Leave her – Exploration ends.
- o Convince her to talk – go to Verse 790.

812

If you have the “Carving” part 3 status, you already did your work. You may travel to another menhir – go to Verse 835, or keep adventuring if you have any unfinished business on the island – Exploration ends.

If there is no Time Token on this Location, an enormous monster with black wings sits atop the menhir. You may face it – place a Time Token on this Location and go to Verse 888; or you may leave – Exploration ends.

Otherwise, you may pay 2  and 2 Magic per Character to start carving:

- if you have the “Decision” part 1 or 5 status, go to Verse 771.
- if you have the “Decision” part 2 status, go to Verse 781.
- if you have the “Decision” part 3 status, go to Verse 830.

If you can't pay the cost (or don't want to), Exploration ends.

813

Days pass, and you only grow weaker. Your drive to perform heroic deeds fades slowly – in Tuathan, you learned that your power was somehow connected to the wyrdness, so perhaps it's not surprising it begins to disappear as well.

When you feel that your time has come, a tall figure appears before you – Cisonus. He tells you that he won't allow you to die – not after everything you did to save the human race. He also informs you that you are no longer needed on Avalon.

You don't remember what happened next, but you wake up in a soft bed next to a window that overlooks a clear lake. Looking at its calm surface, you wonder what happened in Avalon after your departure.

Hint: If you have Secret cards 90, 91, and 92, your history doesn't end here as someone awaits you in a mysterious land.

If you have the “Dismay” part 5 status, go to Verse 699.

If you have the “Missions” part 9 status, go to Verse 714.

Otherwise, go to Verse 796.

815

As the blinding light subsides, new roads spring into existence before your eyes, overlaid atop one another like panes of glass. You feel you only must focus on one to bring it to fruition.

Wherever the radiant light of the Grail reaches, you may now travel, your name ingrained in one of the variations of this primal myth. The promise of countless journeys spurs your heart to beat faster.

Still, there's something you must leave behind. The guardian spirit Arthur unknowingly conjured out of wyrdness to protect his Avalon, reborn in countless bodies over a millennium, may never leave the island. You say your farewell as it fades from you, a cloud of unrecognizable color that dulls to gray.

“Time to begin anew,” Arthur told you. Your spirit feels lighter, your feet unladen. You have no destiny. You have no part in any grand design – just a wandering soul on a trail. Without hesitation, you whistle an old tune and take your first step.

This time, a simple “Congratulations!” is not enough. You have successfully completed all three campaigns of Tainted Grail and found a hidden path. As the developers of this game, we bow before your dedication, and we wholeheartedly thank you for exploring every dark corner of Avalon with us.

Go to Verse 901.

After many months of traveling through impossible worlds, a group of emaciated people from Forest Sanctuary emerges from the forest and stops before a white castle on a lake.

Go to Verse 860.

818

You can't reach your boat in time – the black beast lands in the nest, tossing you away like a pebble. You fall into the water, where you are vulnerable to the Black Drifter's attacks. What's worse, you can't swim well. The monster hurts you severely, but fortunately, it is content with draining all of your magic, so it doesn't kill you.

Each Party member gains 1 , loses 3  and all Magic. Exploration ends.

819

You collapse on the ground, and the last thing you remember is a soft embrace. When you wake up, you are lying on cold moss with a hazy memory of something vast, radiant, and warm. Something similar, but infinitely smaller lies beside you. You open your eyes and notice a beautiful, golden chalice standing on a stump.

Each Character restores all  and , and loses all . Gain Secret card I.

Congratulations? You've completed your current Chapter. Discard all Event cards, including Active Quests. Then, either Save your game or draw a Chapter 13 Setup card and follow its instructions to begin the next Chapter! Exploration ends.

820

Enraged beyond measure, the Pale Lady raises her armored foot and, with a single stomp, crushes the fetch's head. She doesn't say anything, just turns around and wanders off.

Before you depart, you say a short prayer for the unfortunate creature. Even if its edifice was fake, it was a good and trustworthy companion in the long journey that led you to this place.

Discard Secret card 59. Go to Verse 628.

821

After a moment of rest, you repair one of the boats and push it onto the lake. You ride toward the island – the nest of the Black Drifter. It's full of bones, worthless trinkets, and other clutter. You climb into it and close your eyes, trying to locate anything that could still disrupt wyrdness. It's precisely under the nest – after a closer inspection, you find a working menhir underwater. You take some time to prepare yourself and dive to finish your work. You're not a great swimmer, as any other person on Avalon, but after diving several times, you succeed in remodeling the last menhir.

If you have the “Dismay” part 5 status, go to Verse 718.

Morrigan is proud of her children – the ability to speak with their goddess face to face slowly made them more human. Soon, they change into a tribe of brave warriors, instead of mindless predators.

If you have the “Saved by the Goddess” status, go to Verse 765.

Otherwise, go to Verse 707.

830

The menhir's damage makes your work harder as you have trouble finding a surface suitable for carving new symbols. However, you've been through so many hardships already, this new task is far from daunting. Soon, new runes start slowly changing and sinking into crevices in the wyrdstone. The area darkens, but you're sure it's just your imagination – the menhir still works like before, but it will be slowly transformed into the thing you saw in Tuathan.

Each Character gains 1 Exp. Gain the "Carving" part 3 status. You may travel to another menhir – go to Verse 835, or keep adventuring if you have any unfinished business on the island – Exploration ends.

The Chalk Mare, also known as White Steed or simply Pale Horse, quickly gathers new believers all around Avalon. The adolescent deity cares about her followers, helps travelers, and offers insights to those willing to listen. With many gods of old dead or forgotten, it is reassuring to have a new god that close.

If you have the "Cracked Sanctuary" part 7 status, go to Verse 817.

Otherwise, go to Verse 860.

Humans prevail on Avalon – at least those who are the least influenced by wyrdness. There aren't many of those, but for them Avalon becomes a safer place, devoid of its most dangerous beasts, and the wyrdness itself. It takes many hundreds of years, but eventually, humanity flourishes – with cities, castles, religions, and legends from the past. Most of these legends happen to be about lowborn heroes, saving their kin in past ages of calamities.

The Black Drifter dives at you from the sky. You feel the magic hoarded in your artifacts and your body start floating away. The beast isn't interested in fighting you – it only wants your power. But if you attack it, it will retaliate.

Special rules:

You cannot Escape during this Encounter.

At the beginning of the Encounter, each Party member places all of their Magic near their Character Board in a Stolen Magic pile – they can't use it in any way during this Encounter.

Each Party member gathers markers in their own Combat Pools.

Skip Step 3 – Enemy Attack in the Character Activation Phase. Instead, the Black Drifter Attacks all Party members at the beginning of the End Turn Phase – choose the Attack for each Party member based on their personal Combat Pool. Then, Black Drifter Runs Away. The Combat lasts only 1 turn!

After the Encounter, each Party member retains 1 Magic from their Stolen Magic pile for each 3 markers in their Combat Pools. Discard the remaining Magic.

If none of the Party members have at least 15 markers in their Combat Pool, discard the Menhir Dial or markers from Menhir's base.

If Sloan has at least 15 markers in his Combat Pool and you don't have the “Great Deed” part 2 status, go to Verse 263.

After the Encounter, choose one:

- o Explore the Location you're on for free.
- o Exploration ends.

900

If you have Secret cards 90, 91, and 92, go to Verse 825. Otherwise, go to Verse 901.
